1.	Section 2(1B) - Definition of Amalgamation	Section 2(1B) of the Act provides for definition of Amalgamation in relation to the companies. The definition also contains various conditions to be satisfied for the amalgamation to be treated as tax neutral under the Act. The conditions contained in item (iii) of the said clause is that the shareholders holding at least three fourth in value of shares in the amalgamating company immediately before amalgamation should become shareholders of the amalgamated company. It is a known fact that the Amalgamation is given effect from the appointed date whereas the shares are issued on the effective date. Generally, there is time lag between the Appointed date and the effective date. In case of change in the shareholding in between the two dates, it would not be able to comply with the condition if read literally. It is also a fact that shares can be issued to the shareholders of the amalgamating company only after the effective date as shares cannot be issued retrospectively from the Appointed date. In order to clarify the position and avoid any litigation on the matter, it needs to be provided that the condition needs to be satisfied with reference to the shareholders as on the effective date and not the Appointed date.	It is suggested that the provisions of Section 2(1B) be amended to clarify that the shares are to be issued by the amalgamated company to the shareholders of amalgamating company as they exist on the effective date and not on the appointed date. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

3.	Section 2(18) – Company in which public are substantially interested	Section 2(18) of the Act provides for the definition of "company in which public are substantially interested". This definition assumes importance as there is differential treatment under various provisions of the Act in respect of a company in which public are substantially interested vis-à-vis other companies. Under item (b), the company which is "not a private company" as defined under the Companies Act only are qualified to be included subject to satisfaction of the conditions specified therein. Further, under the Companies Act, 2013, while the definition of "private company" is there, the definition of public company provided under section 2(71) introduces a legal fiction under which a "private company" is deemed to be a public company for the purposes of the said Act. Section 2(71) is as under: "public company" means a company which- (a) is not a private company and; (b) has a minimum paid-up share capital (omitted), as may be prescribed: Provided that a company which is a subsidiary of a company, not being a private company, shall be deemed to be a public company for the purpose of this Act even where such subsidiary continues to be a private company in its articles; An argument can be raised, leading to litigation, that the legal fiction of a private company being deemed to be public company is only restricted to the Companies Act and does not extend beyond that. It is clear that being a deemed public company, the company is bound to follow same regulatory requirements as a public company under	It is suggested that section 2(18) may be amended to:- (i) clarify that a deemed public company under Companies Act is "not a private company", and (ii) a foreign subsidiary, if whole of the share capital of such subsidiary is held by a company in which public are substantially interested, shall be deemed to be a company in which public are substantially interested. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		the Companies Act and therefore for the purposes of Section 2(18) also considering the said company as not a private company is not in any manner contrary to the object and purpose of the said section. It is therefore, necessary to clarify that deemed public company under the Companies Act shall be considered as not a private company for purposes of Section 2(18). Further, there is lack of clarity regarding the status of foreign subsidiary / company. The Companies Act 2013, is silent on nature of subsidiaries incorporated outside India by Indian companies. The laws of host country apparently would govern the status of such subsidiary companies. However, clarity is necessary from the Income-tax Act perspective as such classification has tax implications like issues of deemed dividend etc. Therefore, while there may not be need for clarity from Company Law perspective considering its object and purpose, the same cannot be said for the Income-tax Act. It is imperative that status of the foreign company particularly subsidiary of Indian company needs to be clarified. It is suggested that if the foreign company is wholly owned subsidiary of a company which is a company in which public are substantially interested then the foreign Subsidiary should be considered a "company in which public are substantially interested".
4.	Section 2(19AA) - Demerger	The existing provisions of Section 2(19AA) define the "demerger" and if the demerger carried out as part of corporate restructuring satisfies the condition, then tax neutrality is ensured both for the companies involved and shareholders. The tax neutrality is both from capital gains and the dividend taxation.	It is suggested that section 2(19AA) may be amended to include in the definition of demerger, the corporate divestiture in form of spin-off under which a parent company transfers its shareholding in a subsidiary to its shareholders.

		Listed companies generally carry-on different businesses which are distinct and diverse from each other through the subsidiaries given the applicable regulatory environment or different risk profile or due to different set of investors for different business segments. At a certain stage of growth or development of business of that subsidiary, a natural preference would be to list that subsidiary to secure its future investments and growth or to benefit from improved access of capital, an increased global profile and for greater access to liquidity or to give exit to the private equity investors etc. Listing of a company is always beneficial to the company, to the investor, and to the public at large. It also adds to the economic activities in the country. An initial public offer (IPO) is one of the ways a company can get listed. To list a company through an IPO process is a time consuming and a high-cost event. One of the best international practices for simple and easier listing of a company could be - a listed company distributes its shareholding in a subsidiary to its shareholders. This is form of corporate divesture and is a category of demerger known in commercial world as "Spin- off". After the distribution is completed, the spun off company is no longer a subsidiary of the parent and the parent's shareholders hold not only the parent's stock but also the subsidiary's stock. As the parent is publicly held company, the subsidiary also becomes a publicly held company subject to necessary enabling provisions. The Income-tax Act recognizes the importance of business reorganisation undertaken by the groups for various commercial reasons. In order to facilitate these reorganisations, the Act provides for tax neutrality for the same. A reference can be made to the Explanatory	Further, to ensure that distribution by the holding company to its shareholders of the shares of the subsidiary is not taxable as dividend, an exclusion also needs to be made for such distribution in case of Spin off from definition of dividend under section 2(22). 		Memorandum to the Finance Bill 1999. Under the existing provisions of the Act, tax neutrality has been provided for both amalgamation and demerger of companies subject to certain conditions and also to the intra group transfer of assets between Subsidiary and Holding company. Presently, the Act provides for tax neutrality only for a specific kind of demerger where only a business undertaking can be demerged into a separate resulting company. The corporate divestiture in form of spin-off is not presently covered under the tax neutrality provisions. If the parent company distribute shares of subsidiary company, the said transaction would be considered as dividend distributed by parent company to its shareholders and accordingly fair market value of subsidiary shares received by the shareholder would be taxed as dividend income in the hands of shareholders. However, considering the commercial reasons and in line with the tax neutrality provided to corporate reorganisation in form of amalgamation and demerger, there is need for providing tax neutrality for corporate divestiture by way of spin off subject to conditions. Providing tax neutrality for spin-off in case of a listed company would only result in deferral of taxes for a limited period. If there is no tax neutrality the tax on dividend gets charged up front. However, if tax neutrality is provided, the shareholder would pay capital gain tax subsequently as and when the shares of either company are sold by it and also continue to pay dividend tax on any dividends declared by either of the company post spin-off. The Global practice also indicates that many countries have provided tax neutrality to spin-off transactions as part	2(19AAA) "demerged company" means the company whose undertaking or specified shareholding is transferred, pursuant to demerger, to a resulting company or the shareholders as the case may be; (C) The provisions of section 2(22) may be amended as under – 2(22) "dividend" includes— ------------ but "dividend" does not include— ------- (v) any distribution of shares pursuant to a demerger by the resulting company to the shareholders of the demerged company (whether or not there is a reduction of capital in the demerged company); (vi) any distribution of specified shares under a scheme of demerger by the demerged company to the shareholders of such company. (D) The provisions of section 2(41A) may be amended as under – 2(41A)."resulting company" means – (a) one or more companies (including a wholly owned subsidiary thereof) to which the undertaking of the demerged company is transferred in a demerger and, the resulting company in consideration of such transfer of undertaking, issues shares to the shareholders of the demerged company and includes any authority or body or local authority or public sector company or a company established, constituted or formed as a result of demerger; or (b) the subsidiary company, the of their tax regime related to corporate reorganisation. The broad contours of policy followed by some advanced economies indicates that basic emphasis of the countries, while giving tax neutrality to spin-off transactions, is to impose conditions so that it is not an abusive transaction. Certain conditions relating to control prior to spin-off, distribution of sufficient level of shareholding and active business being the subject matter of transaction are provided for to ensure that abuse of the provisions are avoided. Under the existing provisions of the Act relating to tax neutrality to business reorganisation also, certain conditions have been imposed before neutrality is granted. The tax neutrality can be provided for spin-off transactions on the lines of existing provision for demerger of the company. Further, initially the benefit may be restricted to spin-off being undertaken by listed company. One of the conditions mentioned in sub-clause (ii) of the said clause is that all liabilities related to the undertaking immediately before demerger become the liabilities of the resulting company. Further, Explanation 2	It is suggested that the provisions of clause (19AA) of Section 2 be amended to clarify that for the purposes of Explanation 2(c), whether it is gross value of assets or net assets (after excluding assets corresponding to liabilities in clauses (a) and (b) as aforesaid). (SUGGESTION FOR

		to the said clause provides elaboration in respect of liabilities to be included and transferred to the resulting company. The said Explanation is as under:- "Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this clause, the liabilities referred to in sub-clause (ii), shall include— (a) the liabilities which arise out of the activities or operations of the undertaking; (b) the specific loans or borrowings (including debentures) raised, incurred and utilised solely for the activities or operations of the undertaking; and (c) in cases, other than those referred to in clause (a) or clause (b), so much of the amounts of general or multipurpose borrowings, if any, of the demerged company as stand in the same proportion which the value of the assets transferred in a demerger bears to the total value of the assets of such demerged company immediately before the demerger." There is lack of clarity in respect of the apportionment of general or multipurpose borrowings. It is not clear as to whether for apportionment only gross value of assets has to be taken or the net value after reducing specific liabilities related to the assets has to be considered. This ambiguity at times is leading to avoidable controversies and litigation. It is therefore suggested that necessary clarity be brought in the section by clarifying as to whether gross assets shall be taken in computation of apportionment or the net assets (i.e assets as reduced by specific liability related to an asset) shall be taken. The same clarification would apply to both the numerator and the denominator of the apportionment formula.	RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

6.	Section 2(31) - Definition of person	Section 2(31) of the Act provides for the definition of the term "person". The status of person is critical and is the cornerstone of taxation under the Act. Over the period of past several years, several special taxation regimes have been put in place in respect of various trusts like Special regime for taxation of Securitisation Trusts contained in Chapter XII-EA of the Act, Special regime for taxation of Alternate Investment Funds (AIFs) contained in Chapter XII-FB and Special regime for taxation of Business trusts (REITs and INViTs) under Chapter XII-FA etc. However, there is no clarity in respect of status of these trusts as to whether they are Individual, AOP or BOI. There have been in past, certain judicial rulings which are clearly not applicable to the changed legal position by incorporating these special regimes. Further, there are large and diverse number of unit holders which are beneficiaries of such trusts. This has led to different treatments both by the taxpayers and also, the tax department leading to avoidable controversies and litigations. It is suggested that necessary clarity needs to be provided in respect of their status as a person under the Act. It would be preferable that trusts are given a separate category and enumerated in the definition of person. Apart from above, there is also a case for Co-operative Society assessee to have a separate status as person under section 2(31). Already, there are separate tax rates specified for such co-operative society assessee since long and the time has come to codify the same in the Act itself. In the absence of status as a specific person for co-operative society taxpayer, such assessees have to face certain difficulties. Currently, a lot of co-operative societies are being formed under the respective state laws regulating	It is suggested that section 2(31) of the Act may be amended to specify the status of various trusts like AIFs, Business Trusts and Securitisation Trusts etc. with a number of unit holders being beneficiaries. 7.	Section 2(41A) - Definition of resulting company	Section 2(41A) provides definition of the resulting company in context of demerger which is defined under Section 2(19AA). As per section 2(19AA)(iv), one of the condition for tax neutrality of the demerger under the Act is that "the resulting company issues, in consideration of demerger, its shares to the shareholders of the demerged company". Therefore, it is resulting company which must issue its shares. Section 2(41A) containing definition of resulting company provides as follows ""resulting company" means one or more companies (including a wholly owned subsidiary thereof) to which the undertaking of the demerged company is transferred in a demerger and, the resulting company in consideration of such transfer of undertaking, issue shares to the shareholders of the demerged company and includes any authority or body or local authority or public sector company or a company established, constituted or formed as a result of demerger;" From the above definition by inclusion of phrase "(including a wholly owned subsidiary thereof)" conveys a meaning that where an undertaking is demerged to a wholly owned subsidiary then both holding company and the subsidiary are resulting company. The implication are therefore, that in a demerger a parent of the demerged company can issue its shares to the shareholders of the demerged company instead of the subsidiary to which the undertaking has been transferred. This lack of clarity as to whether an	It is suggested that section 2(41A) may be amended to clarify that where the demerger of an undertaking is to a company which is wholly owned subsidiary then both the company to which the undertaking is transferred and holding company shall be treated as resulting company for purposes of demerger related provisions particularly in context of issue of shares as consideration of demerger. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		option exists that either the subsidiary or its holding company can issue its shares as a consideration for the demerger has led to avoidable controversy and potential litigation. 		income referred to in section 5, computed in the manner laid down in this Act". The material portion of section 5 reads as under:- "5. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the total income of any previous year of a person who is a resident includes, all income from whatever source derived which-" Thus, the "total income" consists of all items of "income" as defined in clause (24) of section 2 of the Act, 1961. The charge of tax under the Act is thus in respect of items of receipt which are in nature of income. While it is true that definition of income as provided under section 2(24) of the Act is inclusive definition and therefore of wide amplitude but at the same time the fact is that for inclusion under the scope of chargeability the receipt should have characteristics of being income. Further, the capital receipts as a general proposition are outside the scope of the Act, subject to legal fiction being created in respect of specific items included in the definition of income over period of time. Section 115JB of the Act, deems the book profit, subject to the adjustment provided under the said section to be deemed to be total income for purpose of computation of Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) liability of the company. However, what can be taxed under section 115JB of the Act is the "total income" which is income as defined in section 2(24) of the Act and capital receipts which cannot form subject matter of the charge of tax under section 4; cannot form part of "total income" and cannot be subjected to tax either under the normal computation provisions or under section 11 5JB of the Act. The absence of provision in section 115JB of the Act for exclusion of such capital receipt credited to the profit and loss account cannot result in its taxation. The norm of the Act is to provide for specific inclusion in respect of capital receipts, therefore in absence of any specific provision directing inclusion of capital receipts in computation under section 115JB, the capital receipts cannot be included. A charge cannot be created by implication particularly when the taxing power under the Constitution is in respect of "income" and not capital receipts. Even if the intention behind introduction of section 115J (predecessor of section 115JB) is seen in the Circular no. 495 dated 22/09/1987, para 36 states that by virtue of various tax concessions and incentives, certain companies making huge profits and also declaring substantial dividends, have been managing their affairs in such a way as to avoid payment of income-tax, and to plug such loopholes, section 115J was introduced. Thus, never the intention was to tax something which is otherwise not chargeable to tax. Recently there have been spate of rulings of Judicial Authorities including High Courts wherein it has been held that capital receipts are not liable for inclusion under MAT provisions. Considering the intent and spirit of the provisions of MAT, it is necessary that the provisions are amended to specifically clarify that an item of receipt which is not in nature of income like capital receipts and which are not chargeable to tax under section 4 would also not be included in book profits for MAT purposes. This clarification would lead to certainty in matter and avoid long term multiple litigations.

11.	Section 5 - Scope of Total Income & Section 7 - Income deemed to be received	Section 5 of the Act provides for scope of total income. The taxability of income under the Act is dependent upon either receipt, or accrual or arising of income or deemed receipt, deemed accrual or arising of income. Therefore, the time when the income is received or accrued is very relevant to determine the taxability of any sum. 		applied or from any other provident fund set up by the Central Government and notified in the Official Gazette was exempt from tax. Also, for a recognised provident fund, exemption with respect to the accumulated balance due and becoming payable to an employee was available in specified circumstances. The above exemption was available without any monetary limits. Finance Act, 2021 amended the above provisions. The amendment provided that the interest income accrued (on or after 1 April 2021) on the employees contribution to PF in excess of Rs 2.50 lakhs in a year shall be chargeable to tax (to be computed in a prescribed manner). Vide notification dated 31 August 2021, Rule 9D has been inserted in the Income-tax Rules, 1962 for computing the taxable interest relating to contribution in a provident fund or recognised provided fund, exceeding specified limit as mentioned above. There is lack of clarity in respect of the year of taxability of the interest accrued on the excess contribution. Section 10(12) refers to exemption in respect of "the accumulated balance due and becoming payable to an employee participating in a recognised provident fund to the extent provided in Rule 8 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule". Therefore, what is exempt is "accumulated balance due and payable" to an employee. The Part A of the Fourth Schedule contains various regulations in respect of the Recognised Provident Funds. The regulations place several restrictions on when the funds can be withdrawn by the employee. Therefore, it is not that the employee has a vested right over the accretion that takes place during the year so as to say that income has accrued to the employee the moment credit takes place. Further, the placement of proviso to section 10(12) also adds to the confusion as the main section refers to "accumulated balance due and payable" thereby deferring the operation of proviso till the time the accumulated balance becomes due and payable. It is essential for avoiding controversy in future regarding the year of taxability of the interest on excess contribution that necessary clarity is brought in respect of point in time when the income is said to accrue or receive by the employee. Section 7 of the Act provides for cases of deemed receipt of income under certain circumstances. The provisions of said section may be amended to include the accrual of interest on excess amount of contribution to be case of deemed receipt in the year of credit. It is suggested to tax interest income at the time of withdrawal, because there is in inflow of funds for a very long term, since this is considered as a retirement benefit.

12.	Section 10 – Income not forming part of Total Income -Exemption for Dividends under certain circumstances	Section 10 of the Act provides exemption in respect of various types of income contained in various clauses of the said section. Under the existing provisions relating to taxation of dividend, the dividend income is taxable in the hands of a shareholder under the head "income from other sources" at the applicable marginal rate. Further, no expenses other than interest (limited to 20% of the Dividend) is allowed while computing income chargeable to tax. Domestic company is provided deduction under Section 80M of the Act in respect of inter-corporate dividends received. The amount of deduction is limited to the amount which has been further distributed by the company before due date of filing of return for the relevant assessment year. In addition, the dividend income is also liable for tax under Minimum Alternative Tax (MAT). There is no relief from cascading effect of taxation under MAT even if the company has distributed dividends further to its shareholders. The deduction under section 80M being conditional upon further distribution of the dividend induces a distortion by creating high tax cost for reinvestment of funds received by the recipient entity. The forced capital outflow from the business due to tax distortion is not a desirable policy outcome in cases of genuine business activities needing funds at competitive costs. As an Example: If Rs 100 is the profit generated by a company. It pays tax of Rs 35 and distributes Rs 65 to its shareholder/ another company. The dividend received by the parent company is reinvested in the business and if it does not declare further dividend, within the due date of filing return, then a tax of Rs 22.75	It is suggested that section 10 of the Act be amended to provide that a domestic company whose shares are listed on a recognized stock exchange or its subsidiaries shall be granted exemption in respect of any income by way of dividend received from a domestic company which is part of the same group. 		@35%(including SC and Cess) leaves only Rs 42.25 to be available for reinvestment. Further, as and when the shareholder of the parent receives this amount as dividend, the Rs 42.75 would also suffer tax of Rs 14.78 at the Applicable marginal rate. Thus, total tax payable on corporate profit of Rs 100 is Rs 72.53. This may further increase if the number of company layers are more than 2. The reinvestment of internal generation within a group suffers high tax cost. Accordingly, the funds are forced to move out of the productive business cycle. Absence of any relief from MAT liability on dividend income irrespective of whether any retention of dividend has taken place at inter-corporate level or not compounds the problem of high tax cost significantly. It is a known fact that due to regulatory reasons a company is required to set up subsidiaries and special purpose vehicles. Similarly, engagement in diverse businesses at times necessitates creation of multiple entities. Presence of different subsidiaries in a corporate structure is therefore an outcome of both regulatory and genuine commercial requirement. If the tax induced distortions in allocation of capital cannot be eliminated, then the need of its reduction in a targeted manner is the most desirable policy response. It is on this fundamental basis that international best practice is to have “participation exemption” relief widely defined to avoid economic double taxation on inter-corporate dividends from shareholdings or participations. This ensures productive utilization of resources within a group without tax leakage. The International practice indicates that in majority of countries the inter-corporate dividend is either exempt or a participation exemption is provided based on certain conditions. The general principle followed is of granting deduction in respect of dividends received from other companies wherein the recipient company	exchange in India; (c) a business trust referred to in sub-clause(i) of clause (13A) of section 2 in respect of which the said company or any subsidiary thereof is a sponsor as defined under clause (zz) of Regulation 2 of Securities and Exchange Board of India (Infrastructure Investment Trusts) Regulations, 2014;” (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		shareholding exceeds certain minimum threshold. It may not be out of place to mention that the requirement of further distribution, within limited time span, by the recipient company to avail deduction in respect of Inter-corporate dividends under the Act is a concept not being followed in most of the countries. Further, absence of any relief while computing tax liability under MAT results in continued undesirable cascading effect of taxation. The condition of further distribution under section 80M apparently is with the objective to prevent permanent deferral of taxes on dividends through utilization of interposed corporate entities. In case of private companies where the identity of shareholder and the company merges from a practical point of view due to lack of regulations and absence of governance norms, the indefinite deferral of taxes on dividends may be a realty that needs to be addressed. However, at the same time, there is a need to have differentiated policy response in case of companies in which public are substantially interested vis-à-vis closely held companies. It is undeniable fact that companies whose shares are listed on the recognized stock exchange and their subsidiaries are working under a stringent regulatory regime enforced by market regulators like SEBI and the Ministry of Corporate Affairs which ensures transparency and good governance. The fear of misuse contemplated in a closely held corporate structure may not be there in a structure involving companies in which public are substantially interested. Further, listed companies do follow a pattern of dividend distribution and having public shareholding ensures its compliance. The merit of differential regime for companies in which public are substantially interested has been well recognized in the various provisions, particularly anti abuse provisions, in the Act as enumerated below: 1. Exception from applicability of deemed dividend provisions under section 2(22)(e), 2. Exception from applicability of anti-abuse provisions of section 56(2)(viib) for companies in which public are substantially interested, and 3. Exception from the widened scope of increased burden under proviso to Section 68. Considering the regulatory and governance oversight, the risk of indefinite deferral of taxation of Dividends in case of listed companies and its subsidiaries is not real. Accordingly, there is an urgent need to provide a special regime in respect of taxation of inter-corporate dividends in cases of companies in which public are substantially interested particularly for listed companies and its subsidiaries. The amendment of the Act be considered in order to include a special dispensation in respect of inter-corporate dividends received by a listed company and its subsidiaries from domestic companies and InVITs which are part of the same group.

The Government may reconsider this amendment. It is well known and duly acknowledged by the Government that honest middle class salaried assessees are depositing their hard-earned money into PF in order to accumulate a retirement corpus. Government may consider fixing higher limit that enables a middle-class salaried person to build its retirement corpus and also restrict people from taking undue advantage of EEE scheme. As an alternative, the PPF contribution limit of Rs.1.50 lacs per person, may be increased, so that benefit is available to all sections of society; the Government would also have a good long term source of funds. Considering inflation and need for social security for people when they are aged, the limit may be increased further as deemed suitable. This limit of Rs.1.50 lacs was set in 2014 (it was increased from Rs. 1lac to Rs.1.50 lacs in 2014 – section 80C) and considering inflation and need for social security for people when they are aged, the limit may be increased further.

It may be noted that the Companies Act, 2013 was recently amended allowing companies to carry forward the excess CSR spend in a year to set off in future 3 years. The said amendment in Income-tax Act, 1961 may not be in sync with the intent of the Government communicated and expressed in the Companies Act as aforesaid. Issue II The Finance Act 2021 has raised prescribed limit for exemption by amending section 10(23C) (iiiad)/(iiiae) of the Act. The insertion of new clause(s) has in fact reduced the exemption by stating to aggregate the same for all the institutions together of a person/assessee. The limit of Rs. 1 crore was prescribed in the year 1998, i.e. 23 years back. Since then, the situation has undergone a sea change including devaluation and inflation. Further, Government's expenditure on educational sector is not enough to facilitate the infrastructure to educational sector. It has remained less than 3% of GDP. 		inflation ratio, the same must be at least tripled to Rs.3 crores per institution. But, the amendment has in fact reduced it to Rs.5 crores in aggregate for all the institutions, universities or hospitals taken together for the person. It appears that the amendment is made without taking into account aforesaid factors and hence needs to be suitably modified. The only change that may be required was to change the limit of Rs.1 crore to Rs.5 crore keeping everything else as it is. In fact, a clarification to allow the same per institution is required to be inserted to avoid any confusion and reduce the ongoing litigation at many places. If at all the aggregation is to be considered, then the same should be at least Rs. 100 crores, as the gross receipts are considered. The fee and expense structures have undergone a sea change since the limit was first announced in 1998. There are trusts which are running only primary and secondary schools at multiple places without any Government aid and at places where Government cannot reach. Therefore, a stable and sustainable source of income from the investments and funds of charitable organisations is essential for them to continue to undertake their objectives. One of the core conditions to be fulfilled by the charitable organisations for continued tax exemption is that any accumulation of income, investment and deposit of orgainisations funds and the corpus donation has to be kept in the specified modes. The permitted modes are provided under Section 11(5) of the Act. The said section also had enabled additional modes to be prescribed by way of Rules. Rule 17C of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 (the "Rules") provides for additional permitted modes of investment. The legislature and the Government have both been responsive to the need of charitable organisations having sustainable source of revenue and at the same time investments being channelized effectively and in focused manner for ripple effect in the economy. This is evidenced by inclusion of various new modes of investment being permitted both under Section 11(5) and Rule 17C over period of time. However, keeping in view the objective of charitable organisations, the permitted investments have been in the well regulated space. Earlier these were new instruments, however, over period of six years, adequate maturity has been achieved by this Collective investment vehicle which is similar to the Mutual Funds. The SEBI being primary regulator assures a keen regulatory oversight on the various aspects of Invits. With the evolving financial ecosystem and InvITs having gained sufficient maturity, the prescribed mode of investment by the charitable organisations needs to be amended so as to permit investment in Units and debt instruments issued by an Infrastructure Investment Trust (InvIT) registered under Securities and Exchange Board of India (Infrastructure Investment Trusts) Regulations, 2014. The above modification in the prescribed modes of investment shall facilitate flow of funds for infrastructure development, facilitate long term capital requirement of the infrastructure projects and ease the burden on the banking sector while at the same time providing the charitable organisations an efficient and well regulated instrument for ensuring long term sustainable flow of income. The inclusion of units and debt instruments of an InvIT as a permitted mode would be in complete consonance with the policy objective of the Government as the investments in units of Mutual Funds (which is a similar collective investment vehicle) is already permitted and so also in the various debt instruments of infrastructure finance related entities, as indicated above. The units and debt instruments of InvIT's (a well regulated collective investment vehicle with infrastructure as the focus) blend the two objectives and may be considered for inclusion in permitted mode of investment.

However, at times such a voluntary contribution is received otherwise than sum of money i.e in kind in form of jewellery, silver utensil etc. In absence of any clarity, it may happen that such contributions are not being reflected by some of the organisations and thereby escape the condition of application for charitable and religious purpose requirement. The section is also not clear as to the value at which such contribution in kind are to be recorded for application of condition of accumulation and	It is suggested that section 12 of the Act may be amended so as to clarify that voluntary contribution shall include any such contribution in kind and the value of the property so received by the trust or institution shall be the Fair market value as on date of receipt of such contribution. (SUGGESTIONS TO REDUCE / MINIMIZE LITIGATIONS)

27.	Section 12(1) - Contribution received in kind without specific direction to form part of the corpus under tax net	As per current law, any voluntary contributions received by a trust created wholly for charitable or religious purposes or by an institution established wholly for such purposes shall for the purposes of section 11 be deemed to be income derived from property held under trust wholly for charitable or religious purposes and the provisions of that section and section 13 shall apply accordingly. However, in practice any voluntary contribution received in kind (such as gold, silver, jewellary etc.) without specific direction to form part of the corpus is not recorded in books of accounts by some charitable and religious trusts. Some charitable and religious trusts receive voluntary contributions in the form of gold, silver, jewellary, land etc. The donation in kind received by some charitable and religious trusts is in big volume and carry high value. Many times, it is received from unknown donors. Some trusts are not maintaining proper record of it. Hence it is necessary to bring it under tax net.	In order to bring contribution received in kind (such as gold, silver, jewellery etc.) without specific direction to form part of the corpus under tax net, it is suggested to amend section 12 so as to insert the term "either received in cash or in kind". 30.	Deduction to salaried assessees - Payment for notice period	As per the prevalent norm, the employees are required to serve notice within the stipulated time before leaving the organisation. The notice period, however, varies from organisation to organisation. For example, in an organisation the notice period may be 90 days, or an employee has to pay 90 days salary amount to the organisation as an employee may get a better job opportunity in another organisation wherein he is required to join within 30 days. Accordingly, the employee has to give 30 days' notice in old organisation and pay for short notice of 60 days. Generally, the contract of service also provides that in case the employer is not satisfied with the performance of the employee, he may terminate his services by giving a notice of 30 days or 30 days salary. In case the employer suspends the employee with immediate effect he pays an amount equivalent to 30 days salary and claims deduction thereof. Such amount becomes taxable in the hands of the employee. However, in case the employee is required to pay notice period salary, no deduction of such amount paid is allowed to him. If the new employer agrees to bear the brunt of notice period pay, say of 60 days in above example, the said amount will be included in the total income of the employee and tax will be deducted thereon even if such income belonged to the ex-employer and is taxable in his hands. Thus, in effect the assessee will be liable to pay tax on 14 months' salary i.e. salary for more than 12 months without any deduction available to him.	It is suggested that aforesaid anomaly may be resolved and appropriate provisions be inserted so that income from notice period pay is chargeable in the hands of ex-employer and deduction of the amount of 'notice period pay' paid be made available to the employee as he has not effectively received that income (unless reimbursed by the new employer). (SUGGESTIONS FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

Employees during the course of their employment incur various expenses, including for upgrading skill, for rendering their services as employees, deduction for such expenses needs to be enhanced every year. Ideally, standard deduction may be revised every year basis cost inflation index i.e. standard deduction amount to be revised and indexed annually. The increase in the number of self-occupied properties has been increased to two to encourage the real estate industry. However, the restriction on the number of self-occupied properties to two may be relooked and revisited. No prudent business person will invest in a property and not seek a return on his/her investment unless it is being used for self-occupation either when on business or for leisure. It should be the prerogative of the assessee to decide the number of properties he can hold.	The provisions of Section 23(1)(c) need to be elaborated and an explanation inserted to avoid unnecessary litigation. Mainly, it attracts builders and developers who are struggling with various practical issues inclusive of having a large unsold property. Section 23(5) providing for deemed rental income and making it taxable after two years of property construction appears to be harsh to genuine developers who are unable to dispose off their stock in the slump. Therefore, once a builder demonstrates that he has not been able to sell despite genuine efforts to sell, the deeming provisions may not be made applicable. However, its taxability in the hands of payer is not yet defined and amenable to interpretations. In fact, there are differing judgements by different high courts regarding the taxability of non-compete fees in the hands of payer. Both Gujarat High Court (CIT v Ferromatice Milacron India P. Ltd, [2018] 99 taxmann.com 154 (Guj.)) and Bombay High Court (PCIT v Piramal Glass Limited, ITA No. 556 of 2017) had held that non-compete fees are eligible for depreciation thereby treating the payment of such fees as capital asset (an intangible asset). However, Madras High Court (Asianet Communications Ltd, TS-429-HC-2018(MAD)) has held that non-compete fee paid to a director is a deductible revenue expenditure.	Considering the differing judgements by various courts on the issue of payment of non-compete fees, it is suggested that suitable legislative amendment be made clarifying the treatment of such expenditure in the hands of payer. (SUGGESTIONS TO REDUCE / MINIMIZE LITIGATIONS)

	Goodwill and its adverse impacts on banks and other similar assessees	of a business or profession will not be considered as a depreciable asset and there would not be any depreciation on goodwill of a business or profession in any situation. Accordingly, section 32(1)(ii) of the Act is amended to provide that goodwill of a business or profession shall not be considered as an asset for the purpose of the said clause and therefore not eligible for depreciation. Further, Explanation 3 to sub-section (1) of the said section provide that goodwill of a business or profession shall not be considered as an asset for the said sub-section. Consequential amendments have been made in section 2(11), 50 and 55 of the Act. Issue Currently, as per section 32(1)(ii), depreciation was allowed on various intangible assets including "any other business or commercial rights of similar nature". Other intangible assets being copyrights, trademarks etc. Supreme Court in the case of Smiff Securities Ltd. [2012] 348 ITR 302 (SC) held that goodwill was a depreciable asset under section 32 and depreciation needs to be allowed on the same under section 32(1)(ii) of the Act. Based on the above Supreme Court judgment, many benches of Income Tax Appellate Tribunal as also some High Courts held that whenever any excess amount is paid for acquiring the business of any other concern (in takeovers/mergers), the excess is nothing but the goodwill and hence, depreciation had to be allowed. The Finance Act, 2021 excluded goodwill from section 32(1)(ii) w.e.f. Financial Year 2020-21 pertaining to Assessment Year 2021-22. As such, depreciation will not be allowed on goodwill from Assessment Year 2021-22 & onwards. 		in Smiff Securities Ltd. (supra). It also states that goodwill, in general, is not a depreciable asset and in fact depending upon how the business runs, goodwill may see appreciation or in the alternative no deprecation to its value. Hence, there appears to be little justification for depreciation on goodwill. However, conflicting views are also there. If depreciation is being allowed on these assets, there may not be any feasible justification for not considering goodwill for the purpose of depreciation. We wish to inform that there are various assessees (like banks etc) as also industries who have taken over sick banks / industries and have saved the money of depositors as also the employment of the employees and their money. One of the incentives for taking over sick banks / industries is the allowance for depreciation on goodwill which is invariably paid while taking over sick banks/ industries. This incentive goes a long way in determining the price to be paid for the sick banks/ industries. In the above scenario, considering the fact that the said amendment as carried out, sound banks/ industries may become reluctant to take over sick banks/ industries as the incentive in the form of depreciation allowance will no longer be there and this may prove fatal for the sick banks, their employees as also sick industries.

The following issues may be considered for appropriate amendment in the law : (a) An issue arises whether depreciation can be claimed on the basis of proportionate number of days by the transferor and the transferee company in case of slump sale considering the proviso to section 32 read with section 170 of the Act. (b) As per the current provisions of proviso to section 32, the depreciation can be claimed on the basis of proportionate number of days for which the assets were used by the predecessor and the successor, or the amalgamating company and the amalgamated company, or the de-merged company and the resulting company, as the case may be. Due to practical and administrative difficulties, there may be a time gap between holding of the asset and using the asset so transferred. Such incentive should be provided to telecom and allied businesses also that are essential for the growth of the economy. Extension of benefit under section 35AD to telecommunications sector will ensure creation of employment opportunities, greater penetration of telecom services, infrastructure development and easy flow of foreign funds to capital intensive and debt ridden sector. Also, investment based incentives such as above do not put the Government in a disadvantageous position as these incentives only postpone the payment of taxes and give relief to the tax payers in the initial years by granting deduction for the CAPEX which would have been otherwise allowed by way of depreciation over a longer period.	and allied service companies. In addition to new entities incurring capital expenditure, even existing entities incurring capital expenditure for substantial expansion of their essential core should also be allowed the accelerated deductions as substantial capital infusion is required periodically to sustain their viability. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

Further, section 43B is also amended so as to clarify that the provisions of the said section do not apply and deemed to never have been applied to a sum received by the assessee from any of his employees to which provisions of section 2(24)(x) applies. Issue We wish to inform that various High courts have held that PF/ESIC contribution in respect of employee share is eligible for deduction if the same is paid before the due date of filing income tax return as against due date under the respective Act. It may humbly be noted that businesses have numerous compliances to be done and often engrossed with temporary liquidity issue. As a result, business houses find it difficult to make the payment of employee share within due date on certain occasion under the respective Act. The payment is often coupled with the fact that salary also in such cases is paid belatedly. Employees also co-operate with their employer in such situations. Out rightly, disallowing the amount of employee share towards PF/ESIC if not paid within the date under the respective Act is sure to enhance the financial burden of the taxpayers. In the interest of all, the said amendments needs to be reconsidered. The payment of employee's contributions to PF/ESI and similar funds have been deemed to be disallowed. Various courts have held these to be treated on par with the Employers contributions and these decisions are to be negated now. The reasoning given by the Government is that the employee would be at a loss in terms of interest if the employer delays payment and may even lose their contribution if the employer shuts down	of income tax return as against due date under the Respective Act. Alternatively, the due date under the respective Act may be enhanced from middle of the month to the end of the month. Further, it may also be suggested that disallowance under under Income-tax Act, 1961 (Section 36(1)(va) may be reconsidered in view of the fact that penal provisions are already there in the respective PF/ESI laws. Also, in case found reasonable, disallowance may be made proportionately/graded basis the delay in number of days (period) i.e. full disallowance may not be made for delay of a day. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		the business without paying the employee contributions. Both these may not hold good. The employer is liable to interest and penalties under the respective Acts if they delay payment. The employees interest credit is from the month in which the month in which the payment is due by the employer and not from the month in which the payment is actually made. If the employer does not pay the dues and shuts down business, no deduction under the Act would anyway be granted since the amounts are disallowed u/s 43B of the Act. The employers are anyway penalized under the respective Acts including by way of criminal proceedings and hence it is patently unjust to deny him a deduction when he has actually paid the dues though delayed. Hence, these provisions may be restored and treated on par with the Employer contributions and be allowed if paid within the due date of filing return or allowed in the year of payment if paid subsequently. It may also be kept in mind that delay of few days should not debar to claim the actual expenditure under Income-tax law as due interest is already charged under relevant laws.

46.	Section 37 - Deduction for ESOP expenditure	Under Section 17(2)(vi), the shares allotted by the employer under Employee Stock Option Plan (ESOP) are taxable in the hands of the employees as perquisite under the head salary. ESOP is one of the modes of compensating the employees for their services with the intention to retain the dedicated employees to generate more revenues for the entity and thus it qualifies for deduction u/s 37(1) of the Act. The assessee had an obligation to issue shares at discounted rate on future dates, even if it was not paying anything to its employees. The ESOP granted by the assessee to its employees was for the purpose of development of its business for earning higher profits. However, in absence of any specific provision in the Act, the deductibility of ESOP expense in the hands of the employer assessee remains the bone of contention between the assessee and the tax department. The employer assessee claims it as tax deductible business expense stating that it should be allowable to the employer as salary expense whereas the tax department raises an objection claiming it to be (i) a contingent liability and (ii) being capital account expenditure. The judicial authorities have been consistently allowing the expenditure. It is therefore, necessary that a specific provision may be inserted in the Act to provide for the manner of deductibility of the expenditure in the hands of the assessee on account of ESOP expenses. This would remove the uncertainty and benefit both the tax department as well as taxpayers like provisions of section 17(2)(vi) provided certainty in taxation of ESOPs in the hands of employees.	It is suggested that suitable amendment may be made in the Act to provide for the manner of deduction of ESOP expenses to the assessee being issuer of the ESOPs. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

The amendment covers even the bona fide transactions within its ambit. This amendment is impacting debt ridden companies that enter into arrangement with financial institutions for recast of loan or outstanding interest into convertible, non-convertible instruments, equity, etc. as part of restructuring plans, despite being consented by the Banks or Financial Institutions. It may result in the situation where the deduction for interest on original loan converted into debenture (which then partakes the character of principal loan amount in the form of debenture) may never get allowed in perpetuity.	It is suggested that the amendment in section 43B pertaining to Explanations 3C, 3CA and 3D be reconsidered and further, there is a need to provide for a suitable carveout for conversion effected under the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process ['CIRP'] under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		(b) The transfer is by way of first-time allotment of the residential unit to any person, and (c) The consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer does not exceed Rs 2 crore. Issue The stated reason for the increase in threshold is to boost the demand in the real-estate sector and to enable the real-estate developers to liquidate their unsold inventory at a lower rate to home buyers. At present, the stamp duty valuation of the property is relevant for computation of income if it is more than 110% of the actual sale consideration. Considering the present scenario of the real estate sector, the benefit of threshold of 110% is now extended to 120% if the property is sold by a real estate developer and it's a primary sale where consideration does not exceed Rs 2 crore. The said amendment is expected to boost the real estate sector as well as to provide some relief to home buyers leading to overall economic development. However, the benefit is restricted on sale done prior to 30.06.2021. Further, the benefit is available to only real estate developers & purchasing directly from real estate developers and the consideration does not exceed Rs 2 crores. The real estate sector is facing a big challenge of unsold inventory due to the pandemic/ overall economic conditions created from lock down not attributed to business issues and Banking sector is also facing huge NPAs in this sector. This would, no doubt, reduce the compliance burden of SMEs and MSMEs. However, we would like to point out certain concerns/issues which merit consideration from a revenue augmentation and tax collection standpoint. The steep increase in the threshold for tax audit from Rs. 5 crore to Rs. 10 crore may pose concerns relating to revenue leakage especially in the current faceless assessment regime. Since the time tax audit was first introduced in 1984, the gross tax collections have risen leaps and bounds (it was around approx. 3 or 4 thousand crores in 1984 and now it around Rs 14.2 lakh crores); and tax audit has contributed significantly to such increase. The particulars required to be filled in the various clauses in Form 3CD facilitates the Assessing Officers in carrying out and completing the assessment. Further, considering the thrust on faceless assessments, a tax audit is in fact all the more important now. It will help the tax department get information from the tax audit. Tax audit by chartered accountants have compelled assessees to make suo-moto additions on account of various disallowances like payment of taxes, bonus, interest, etc. u/s 43B, disallowances due to non-deduction of tax (TDS) u/s 40(a)(i)/(ia), various disallowances u/s 40A, payments in cash exceeding Rs. 10000/- per person per day u/s 40A(3), etc. It also provides information on TDS/TCS compliances, non-business expenditures, ICDS Compliances, Form 61A / 61 compliances, allowable deductions under chapter VIA, Receipts / payments in violation of sections 269SS /269ST/269T, comparable ratios, and	*compliances as aforesaid stated. 		many more. Also, depreciation computation, computation of gains/losses on sale of investments, right classification of head of income, instances of export, treatment of exchange differences, provisions relating to new units (various exemptions), etc. to name a few more. Computation of taxable income using ICDS is also very complex. eg ICDS 9 is much more complex than provisions of Accounting Standards. Without tax audit, Income-tax Department may not have right income computed. Importantly, these assessees presently maintain books only because they are liable for tax audit. By raising the threshold for tax audit, these entities may get to indiscipline of no proper records. These entities have bank borrowings ranging from Rs.50 lacs to Rs.5 crore and on aggregate such borrowings are huge. Today banks rely on tax audited financial statements for credit review. Such move may expose banks to significant risk if tax audit is removed. Thus, in effect, the tax audit report is the first stage verification by the chartered accountant of the compliances under the Income-tax Act, 1961. He certifies that the information given in the said Form are true and correct, based on the documents examined by him. Such certification by the chartered accountant facilitates the Assessing Officer to carry out the assessment expeditiously. Although safeguards have been provided in the form of thresholds, namely, applicability of enhanced limits only in cases where cash receipt is not more than 5% of total receipt and cash payment is not more than 5% of total payment, however, in the absence of tax audit, verification of this compliance would be directly on the income tax department. 		on account of increase in threshold may not be able to correctly compute their income from business by providing for the disallowances suo-moto. They are also not covered within the presumptive tax provisions under section 44AD, since the threshold for the same continues to be Rs. 2 crore. Penalty for non-reporting is steep considering the section 271AAD and other penal provisions like section 270A under the Income-tax law. Small businesses may not be able to report not because they want to evade tax but due to the ignorance of such provisions. This importance of tax audit, therefore, cannot be undermined as a mere compliance which is viewed as burdensome, without appreciating its contribution to the exchequer. In this regard, the Government may consider following ground realities and various other factors as mentioned below: 1. Auditors act as a watchdog on various compliances such as tax deduction, excess cash payment above Rs. 10000/-, Professional Tax deduction, GST Reconciliation etc. In most of the cases, the tax Auditor informs the assessees to comply with all provisions of law. 2. Digital economy cannot be done at the cost of revenue loss. Some Small and medium enterprises sometimes does to want to pay taxes because of fear of audit as they are complying with various laws. Certain situations where tracking may not be done digitally are as follows: a. Assessee may not be deducting tax, b. Assessee has purchased goods and now sold, money received in bank but sales invoice not raised. c. Assessee putting personal digital transaction expenses in profit & loss account. 		between personal expenses and business expenses. Certain assessees may now go for filing of their Tax returns from Non-qualified professionals bringing down the quality of books of accounts and Government may not have any mechanism to trace it. However, Individuals/HUFs/Firms whose turnover exceeds Rs 2 crore and 95% of the receipts and payments are through prescribed electronic modes are exempted from tax audit even if their profit is less than 6%. Since the same is not covered under section 44AD, it may be noted that individuals/HUFs/Firms with turnover upto Rs 2 crores who are eligible to opt for section 44AD cannot declare profits lower than 8%/6% as the case may be without getting their books of accounts audited. It would amount to violation spelt out in section 44AD(4) of the Act. This anomaly also needs to be rectified.
53.	Section 44AB - Applicability of audit in specific case	It is mentioned in section 44AB(e) that every person carrying on the business shall, if the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 44AD are applicable in his case and his income exceeds the maximum amount which is not chargeable to income-tax in any previous year get his accounts audited by chartered accountant. Hence, there is confusion about audit of business of a person having turnover less than one crores and who declares profit less than eight percent. Section 44AB(a) specifies to get accounts audited, if the person has turnover more than Rs.1 Crore/Rs.5/Rs 10 Crore. Section 44AB(e) is applicable	It is suggested that a clarification may be inserted in section 44AB regarding applicability of section 44AB(e) to the person having turnover from business less than Rs. 1 Crore and declares profit less than eight/six percent and have never exercised option to declare profit on presumptive basis as mentioned u/s 44AD(4). (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

The aforesaid clause is having issues in its interpretation. This is creating unnecessary confusion because for every hgv, there is gvw and also ulw. So, it is not clear as how to calculate the presumptive income under this section. One interpretation may be that when an hgv is in use, for that period take gvw and when it is idle for that period take ulw for calculating income under this section. But such calculation will require proper records which goes against the very purpose of presumptive tax scheme. It may be mentioned that clause (ii)of this sub section provides rate of Rs 7500/- per month for non hgv. Considering this and heavy depreciation and finance charges, monthly presumptive rate of Rs 15000/- may be quite appropriate for hgv.	It is suggested that instead of the current calculation prescribed under section 44AE(2)(i), a fixed monthly rate of Rs 15,000/- per month per hgv may be prescribed. (SUGGESTION FOR IMPROVING TAX COLLECTION)

59.	Section 45(5A) - Taxation of joint development agreements (JDAs)	Currently, relaxation is granted to individuals and HUFs. In towns and cities, due to land availability being scarce, more developments are happening through vertical expansions via JDAs. Tax on most JDAs are litigated w.r.t. time of taxation and/or value for taxation. While welcoming relaxations by the Finance Act 2017, the equity lies in favour of all joint developments, for capital gains as well as for stock in trade and for all types of assessees. This will encourage real estate joint developments. Section 45(5A) incorporates provisions of section 50C, but only partly with the result that relief provisions to assessees aggrieved against higher stamp valuation are not applied. 		shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.'; Thus the "Fair Market Value" of the capital assets as on the date of transfer will be considered as sale consideration for the purpose of charging capital gain on transfer of such capital assets on slump sale. However, the amendment had kept the condition of no indexation benefit being available in context of slump sale which is otherwise available or transfer under second proviso to section 48. The manner of calculating such fair market has been provided by insertion of Rule 11UAE. As per Rule 11UAE, the valuation is based on notional consideration wherein book value of specified assets is substituted by the fair market value. Therefore, even in cases where transfer happens at book value the notional consideration gets imputed and taxation happens at higher value. In a sense the deemed consideration is based on individual assets fair value. That being the case, it is inequitable policy response to not allow benefit of indexation on the cost of the undertaking. It is equitable that if the fair market value of capital is taken as sale consideration, there should be corresponding amendment in section 50B(2) with respect to allowability of benefit of indexation as per second proviso to section 48 while computing net worth for those undertaking which are held for more than 36 months.

Same litigations continue even after the amendment made e.g. 4 flats can comprise in "a house" as well as "one house". Further, section 54 and 54F are benevolent sections. The majority of the judgements have come in favour of the assessee. However, so many litigations go on endlessly on issues like allotment letter, purchase in joint names including a family member, construction or purchase, so on. It is necessary to take cognisance of spirit of law and the decided case laws and to make the sections more clarificatory and positive so that the litigations can be avoided. Bringing the time limit upto the due date of filling of ITR shall also bring parity with section 54/54B/54F etc. where assessee is permitted to deposit the money in Capital Gains Account upto the due date of filing of ITR. In fact, assessee would be in a better position to take a call as to which exemption option is better suited for him. 4. In number of transactions, there is some difference in dates of actual handing over of possession, submission of documents for registration of transfer, actual date of registration and even a subsequent modification of registered document due to demand of additional stamp duty. All these dates, though may fall in the same year but still may differ from each other, creating an unnecessary dispute regarding actual date of transfer and thereby time limit of 6 months. Later, on 1st June 2018 X Ltd merges with Y Ltd (listed co.) and Mr A gets the shares of Y Ltd against his investment in X Ltd. Mr. A further sells the shares of Y Ltd on 31st July 2019. This section is applicable only when the capital asset is acquired before 01st February 2018. Since the holding period of X Ltd is added for determining LTCG/STCG, Shares of Y Ltd should be deemed to be acquired before 01st February 2018 and the fair value of shares of X Ltd on 31st January 2018 should be considered for the purpose of determining the cost of acquisition of shares of Y Ltd u/s 55(2)(ac). Now the question arises how to determine the fair value as on 31st January 2018 - When both the companies are listed. To determine the fair value of equity share, we may refer to the highest price of shares of X Ltd or Y Ltd as on 31st January 2018. There is no clarity in section 55(2)(ac) and therefore, it needs to be amended to provide that fair value of shares of X Ltd on 31st January 2018 be treated as cost of acquisition of shares of Y Ltd. (ii) Demerger: A shareholder Mr. A has purchased 10 shares of X Ltd on 01st January 2017 at Rs. 100 each. In order to determine the Gain/ Loss on sale of shares, we would be required to compute the cost of acquisition of shares under section 55(2)(ac). These provisions does not provide clarity of valuation on shares on demerger. Section 55(2)(ac) may need to be amended by clarifying that on demerger the share price of X Ltd (Listed co) is to be determined as on 31st January 2018 by taking highest price as on 31st January 2018. 72.	Section 56(2)(x) – Need for enabling flexibility in certain circumstances	Section 56(2)(x) is an anti-abuse provision intending to curb tax avoidance. Normally the provisions should not get attracted where there is no possibility of any tax avoidance being there. However, the language of the section as presently worded does not allow any scope for explanation of a transaction being undertaken in a particular manner which may be at variance with the deemed value resulting from mechanical application of the rules. This has unintended results in that: (i) Section 56(2)(x) may get attracted to genuine transaction not leading to any tax avoidance. (ii) The mechanical application of deemed value creates additional tax liability based on historical costs with no correlation with the current economic value. It needs to be appreciated that no one valuation method or a price can be said to fairly deal with multifarious commercial realities of transactions even when no tax avoidance is involved. Although the Act itself has recognised it in several other provisions which are anti abuse provisions but then selectively this reality has been ignored in section 56(2)(x). For Example, Section 50C brought to check undervaluation in context of transactions in immovable properties provide an option for the assessee to present a case as to why stamp duty valuation is unjustified. Further, an inbuilt tolerance has been permitted (now upto 10%) for acceptance of transaction value. Incidentally section 56(2)(x) incorporates	It is suggested that section 56(2)(x) may be amended to enable the person in receipt of property other than immovable property to offer explanation regarding the inadequacy of consideration, if any, vis-à-vis the fair market value as determined in prescribed manner and if such an explanation is found satisfactory by the assessing officer then the provisions of the said section shall not apply to such transaction. (SUGGESTIONS FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS) this principle only for immovable property transaction but then ignores the same principle for other transactions. There are many genuine reasons for transaction to happen at a price in variance to a mechanical rule: (i) the transfer of property may be under stressed conditions (like covid created circumstances), (ii) the volume of transaction and contractual terms may be at variance by what has been assumed. (iii) the special characteristics and nature of transaction like a case of bulk deal undertaken off exchange. (iii) historical costs may not reflect the present economic value of the property. In such situation to burden the taxpayer with tax liability based on an artificial construct with no recourse to even present the matter for consideration by the tax authorities and automatic presumption of undervaluation is not desirable. It is therefore of utmost importance looking into the wide scope of transactions covered under Section 56(2)(x) that an enabling provision is there in the section allowing the assessee an opportunity to substantiate that the transaction price variation is justified. It's ultimately for the tax department to analyse and examine the satisfactory nature of the explanation offered.

The crisis in second wave of Covid 19 pandemic has brought into focus the urgent and long term need for strengthening the health infrastructure in the country. The Private Philanthropy has an important role to play in supplementing the National efforts for improvement in the heath infrastructure of the country. Many wealth creators/ promoters especially of large listed companies need to retain control from a strategic business perspective. Various stakeholders such as Institutional investors, shareholders, JV partners etc. expect oversight and control from individual promoters. In such a situation, the only way for achieving philanthropy is that while the promoter does not part with shares (i.e. voting rights), the economic benefits arising from the shareholding i.e. dividends/ capital gains can be renounced towards philanthropy. Considering the above, if the philanthropist/ donor intends to renounce their economic rights in the shareholding or assign economic benefits to a charitable organization having primary focus as medical relief, a facilitating mechanism needs to be put in place whereby the benefits can be passed on directly to the charitable institution. This would ensure huge fund flow to the health and medical sector without diluting any of the stated policy objectives of the Government.

AGGREGATION OF INCOME AND SET OFF OR CARRY FORWARD OF LOSS

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS

79.	Section 72 – Insurance industry concerns	The insurance industry has a long gestation period and it takes a long time to achieve a break-even. Accordingly, the limit of 8 years for carry forward and set off of business losses is not sufficient.	It is suggested that insurance companies should be allowed to carry forward and set-off unabsorbed business losses for an indefinite period. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)
80.	Section 71(3A) - Loss from House Property	Section 71 of the Act provides for set off of any loss arising under the head "Income from House Property" against any other head of income. As per section 71, it is restricted to set off the losses to the extent of Rs 2,00,000 against any other head of income and the unabsorbed loss to be carried forward upto subsequent 8 assessment years. Middle class and lower class people generally invest in property by obtaining loan from the banks. The amount of interest paid is always higher than the rental income earned against such property and as per the current provisions the loss could be set off against other income. This has always been a motivator to invest in the real estate. The amendment will hit the salaried class badly since many salaried class have real estate as one of the dominant asset class in the portfolio. Many of them have borrowed to acquire a house which is self-occupied. Further, the Finance Minister in his budget speech focused on housing development. The restriction of set off of loss will not promote development of housing projects. The carry forward of the unabsorbed	It is therefore suggested to withdraw the said amendment. Service industry undertakings in general are not allowed such carry forward with the exception of Software and Telecom services. Media and Entertainment Industry requires huge investments in digitization, technology set up and distribution network. Seeking level playing field with other services like Telecom, Software etc. As per the Notification issued by the Govt. in 2004, Broadcasting and Cable Services are a part of Telecommunication Services. This is so, as firm and partners are treated as same under the civil law and a firm does not have a separate legal entity, unlike a company being a body corporate. Under Income Tax, firm is a separate person and it includes an LLP. LLP is a body corporate under LLP Act, 2008 and has separate legal entity and perpetual succession. An LLP may have 100 or 1000 partners, as there is no limit on maximum number of partners under LLP. 83.	Section 79 – (a) Carry forward and set off of loss in case of eligible start-ups - Condition to be further relaxed	The Finance Act, 2017 amended section 79 to provide that where a change in shareholding has taken place in a previous year in the case of a company, not being a company in which the public are substantially interested and being an eligible start-up as referred to in section 80-IAC of the Act, loss shall be carried forward and set off against the income of the previous year, if all the shareholders of such company which held shares carrying voting power on the last day of the year or years in which the loss was incurred, being the loss incurred during the period of 7 years beginning from the year in which such company is incorporated, continue to hold those shares on the last day of such previous year. Similar position remains even after the substitution of section 79 vide the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2019. The existing provisions provide for restrictions on carry forward of losses in case of substantial change in shareholding of the Indian company. As per the current provisions, shareholders of the company at the end of the financial year in which the loss was incurred must continue to own at least 51% of the shares in that company in the year in which such carry forward loss is to be set off; otherwise, the company loses the ability to carry forward such loss. The Government, in pursuance of the start-up action plan and facilitating ease of doing business, introduced a beneficial regime for start-up to carry forward and set off losses. It has been provided that as long as all the original shareholders of the Company at the end of the financial year in which the loss was incurred continue to be shareholders of such shares in the financial year in which the loss is to be	It is, therefore, suggested that the condition of continuous holding of the promoters/investors (being persons holding shares in the year of loss) be relaxed. Inter-se transfers between such shareholders be permitted. Also, it should suffice that the group of promoters/investors hold upto 26% of the voting power in the year of set-off. In any case, the turnover condition for a company to be an 'eligible start up' may be omitted in Explanation (ii)(b) to section 80-IAC. Also, the period for carry forward and set-off of losses can be extended based on period of gestation in the particular industry instead of initial period of 10 years. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		set off, the benefit of carry forward of loss would be available. Another issue is on account of turnover condition specified in Explanation (ii)(b) of section 80-IAC for a company to qualify as 'eligible start up'. The condition is that turnover of such company should not exceed Rs. 25 Crore anytime between F.Y. 2016-17 to F.Y. 2020-21. This condition also creates uncertainty for startups in the matter of section 79 limitation as generally applicable to closely held companies i.e., whether the turnover limit has to be adhered to in the year of set-off as well. The condition of continuing to hold all shares appears to be applicable not only to the initial promoters but also all persons investing subsequently in the startup, which may cause genuine practical hardship. This may also be practically difficult for the start-up company to achieve since PE investors generally look at time frame of 3 to 5 years for exit at a higher price. The exit may happen either through secondary sale in subsequent round of PE funding or through IPO. Any such exit will trigger section 79 limitation for the start-up company.
	(b) Insertion of third proviso in Section 79 - relief for change in shareholding of subsidiaries pursuant to resolution plan	Section 79 of the Income-tax Act,1961 restricts the carry forward and set off of losses in the hands of a closely held company, if the shares carrying more than 51% of voting power of such company are not beneficially held by persons who beneficially held such shares on the last day of the previous year in which such loss was incurred. In general, implementation of resolution plan in respect of a company undergoing resolution process may involve either issue of additional shares or other restructuring exercise resulting in change in the shareholding of such company beyond the permissible limit u/s 79. In addition, thereto, the company may	It is suggested that section 79(2)(c) be amended to clarify that it applies both to the company undergoing resolution process as well as its subsidiaries. The provision may be modified as follows: "Provided also that nothing contained in this section shall apply to a company as well as its subsidiary where a change in the shareholding takes place in a previous year pursuant to a resolution plan approved under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, after affording a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the jurisdictional also be required to hive off its investments in subsidiaries by selling its stake to interested investors. This may result in change in shareholding of the subsidiaries triggering consequences u/s 79 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in the hands of subsidiaries as well. Hence, this may discourage the interested acquirers/bidders from making investments in loss making subsidiaries and also in offering higher bids. Finance Act 2018 has amended the provisions of section 79 by inserting third proviso to section 79, to state that section 79 will not apply to companies, where the change in the shareholding is pursuant to implementation of a resolution plan approved by adjudicating authority (AA). This benefit is to be provided after an opportunity of being heard is given to the jurisdictional Commissioner or Principal Commissioner. Similar position remains even after the substitution of section 79 vide the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2019. Issue: Thus, in terms of the third proviso to section 79, carry forward and set off of losses of a company undergoing insolvency resolution process as well as its subsidiaries will not be impacted by section 79, if the change in shareholding takes place pursuant to a resolution plan approved by AA. While such be the case, it is likely that NCLT will not hear Principal Commissioner/Commissioner holding jurisdiction over the subsidiaries. Hence, the reference to an opportunity of being heard to be given to the Principle Commissioner/Commissioner by AAs may raise a doubt that the third proviso to section 79 only refers to the company which is undergoing a resolution process under IBC.	Principal Commissioner or Commissioner holding jurisdiction over the applicant". (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

In view of section 79, change in management may result in accumulated losses getting lapsed.	In current scenario, most of the sales would be distressed sales and not with an intent to claim tax advantage. 86.	Section 79- Carry forward and set off of losses in case of certain companies	Section 79 provides that in case of a Company, not being a company in which the public are substantially interested, shall not be allowed to carry forward and set-off the losses against the income of previous year, unless on the last day of the previous year, the shares of the company carrying not less than fifty-one per cent of the voting power were beneficially held by persons who beneficially held shares of the company carrying not less than fifty-one per cent of the voting power on the last day of the year or years in which the loss was incurred. If the object of the section is seen it was introduced as an anti-abusive provision intended to curb the taxpayers attempts at acquiring loss making Company and claim / enjoy the tax benefits of such losses while conducting profitable business. It is worthwhile to note that the section explicitly uses terminology "person who beneficially held shares". The section therefore aims to protect	It is suggested that section 79 may be amended to provide clarification regarding the "beneficially held" so that the determination of such holding for the purposes of this section is on the basis of both direct and indirect holding in the company. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS) those cases wherein substantial ownership has been transferred within the same group i.e. the ultimate ownership does not undergo change. The core issue therefore is whether only direct ownership is to be considered then the concept of "beneficially held" becomes redundant. Therefore, the indirect shareholding has to be considered to determine as to whether there has been change in beneficial ownership or not. The dispute in this regard have been recurring and although majority of Judicial rulings have been in favour of taking indirect ownership into consideration to determine whether change has happened for the purposes of this section. Still there are few rulings which have taken only direct shareholding change to be sufficient. Considering the spirit and purpose of the section as well as majority of rulings it would be a step in right direction if an amendment is made in the section and clarification regarding the "beneficially held" is provided so that determination is on the basis of both direct and indirect holding in the company.

A notable deduction under Part C is available under section 80P to cooperative societies. The aforesaid provisions appear to be pretty harsh considering contemporary situations. A delay of even one day in filing return of income within the time allowed under section 139(1) would mean that assessee would not be able to claim specified deductions and set/off and carry forward losses as specified. 		sanctioned after section 80EE deduction was not available i.e. 01.04.2017 and onwards One of the conditions required to avail the benefit of section 80EEA is that the loan has been sanctioned by a financial institution during the period beginning on 01.04.2019 to 31.03.2022. Further, benefit of section 80EEA is available to assessee, being an individual not eligible to claim deduction under section 80EE. Here, it is pertinent to mention that benefit of section 80EE was available to assessees whose loan had been sanctioned by the financial institution during the period beginning on 01.04.2016 and ending on 31.03.2017. Accordingly, there are hundreds of assessees who may have loan sanctioned after 01.04.2017 but before 31.03.2019 for purchasing a residential house property and fulfilling other conditions as laid down in section 80EE/ section 80EEA. Such assessees did not get any income tax benefit in the absence of such a provision in income tax law during such period. In order to truly realize the goal of the current Government of 'Housing for All' and 'affordable housing', it may be considered that the provision of section 80EEA pertaining to period of sanctioning of loan may be taken from 01.04.2017 instead of 01.04.2019 i.e. the period when deduction under section 80EE was not available. Issue II: Clarity regarding benefit to be available for loan taken for construction of residential house property as well Section 80EEA(1) reads as under: "(1) In computing the total income of an assessee, being an individual not eligible to claim deduction under section 80EE, there shall be deducted, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, interest	section 80EEA(3)(i): "(i) the loan has been sanctioned by the financial institution during the period beginning on the 1st day of April, ~~2019~~2017 and ending on the 31st day of March, 2020;" (ii) Accordingly, it is suggested that section 80EEA(1) may be amended as follows (by inserting the words 'or construction' akin to provisions of section 54 and 54F): "(1) In computing the total income of an assessee, being an individual not eligible to claim deduction under section 80EE, there shall be deducted, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, interest payable on loan taken by him from any financial institution for the purpose of acquisition OR CONSTRUCTION of a residential house property."

In the larger interest of small tax payers, the wordings in the section 80EEA(1) may be modified from "acquisition of a residential house property" to "acquisition or construction of residential property". There may be a case where assessee owns a land and desires to construct a house and loan is taken for construction of that house. In the absence of clarity, there may be litigations/issues on plain interpretation of language used in the section 80EEA(1) w.r.t. availability of benefit on interest payable on loan taken for construction of residential house property. It is pertinent to mention here that section 54 and 54F quite clearly uses the term 'construction' along with the term 'purchase' of a residential house property. Issue III: Request to raise the value of residential house property from Rs 45 lakhs to a reasonable amount so that additional deduction of Rs 1.5	(iii) In view of aforesaid, it is suggested that limit of Rs 45 lakh as the value of residential house property may be raised lakh may be claimed In order to avail the benefit of this section, one of the conditions prescribed is that the stamp duty value of residential house property does not exceed Rs 45 lakhs. Let's take a case where the actual cost of acquisition of residential house property on which loan is taken from Financial Institution (FI) is Rs.40.00 lakh. Normally, FI finances 75% to 80% of cost of property. In the given case, the loan amount would be say approx. Rs.30.00 lakh. As per the prevailing rate of interest on housing finance (presuming it to be under 9%), interest even in the first year would not be more than Rs. 3.00 lakh. If assessee consumes interest of Rs. 2.00 lakh under section 24(b), the maximum limit/benefit in the section remains unutilized. Under such circumstances, in order to pass on the real benefit of Rs. 1.50 lakh additional deduction, the limit of Rs.45.00 lakh may reasonably be modified. It may be noted that even otherwise, limit of allowable interest u/s section 80EE (though applicable for loan sanctioned during the financial year 2016-17) is increased from Rs. 50,000/- to Rs. 1,50,000/-, corresponding limit of value of residential property is reduced from Rs. 50 lakh to Rs.45 lakh which seems to be unjustifiable. Further, instead of stamp duty value as used in section 80EEA(3)(ii), it should be actual acquisition cost or cost of construction as stamp duty value in many circumstances is much more than actual value. To quote an example, if the layout is on main road and it has few flats on main road and some are on fifth or sixth lane. The stamp duty valuation of entire layout is same whereas actual valuation may differ because of so many circumstances such as house is having two roads; it is	appropriately. (say to Rs 55 lakhs). Further, akin to section 80EE, section 80EEA(3)(ii) may be amended to do away with the term 'stamp duty value'. It implies that house property for which loan is taken should be the first house property of the assessee. This condition is contrary to the provisions of section 54 and 23 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 which allows the beneficial provisions specified therein to assessees owning two house properties. In the Interim Budget presented on 01.02.2019, the Finance Act 2019 amended section 23 so that the assessee can claim two house properties as self-occupied for the purpose of calculating the annual value u/s 23(2) under the head 'Income from house property'. Even under the head 'income from capital gains', the assessee can opt for 2 residential houses of upto Rs 2 crores for reinvestment purposes (u/s 54) while calculating taxable capital gains. The provision provides for 100% deduction in respect of Farm Producer companies having total turnover upto Rs 100 crore whose gross total income includes the incomes specified therein. As aforesaid, on similar lines as of Co-operative Society, the Hon'ble Finance Minister of India had introduced section 80PA for Farmers Producer Companies vide the Union Budget, 2018 (100% deduction for 5 years). Madam Speaker, at present, hundred per cent deduction is allowed in respect of profit of co-operative societies which provide assistance to its members engaged in primary agricultural activities. Over the last few years, a number of Farmer Producer Companies have been set up along the lines of co-operative societies which also provide similar assistance to their members. In order to encourage professionalism in post-harvest value addition in agriculture, I propose to allow hundred per cent deduction to these companies registered as Farmer Producer Companies and having annual turnover up to `100 crores in respect of their profit derived from such activities for a period of five years from financial year 2018-19. This measure will encourage "Operation Greens" mission announced by me earlier and it will give a boost to Sampada Yojana." Co-operative Society Taxation Section 115JC (pertaining to Alternate Minimum Tax) is applicable to Co-operative Societies. But, due to specific reference in Section 115JC, the Co-operative Societies which take deduction of Section 80P, can also reduce book profits by the amount of deduction claimed under Section 80P. It may be noted that while cooperative assesses are not exposed to tax based on book profit like companies, they are to pay a minimum tax based on adjusted total income which shall be computed by increasing the deductions as claimed by assessee under any section included in Chapter VI-A of the heading 'C – Deductions in respect of certain incomes' (but excluding any deduction u/s 80P) and deduction claimed u/s 10AA, with the total income

However, it is unlikely that salaried individuals would keep their entire savings in a savings bank account, which earns a much lower rate of interest as compared to term deposits. They are likely to transfer some portion of their savings to several deposits to earn comparatively better returns. Therefore, since the money is anyway kept within the banking channels, it is suggested to include all types of deposit interest within the ambit of section 80TTA.	It is suggested that interest on all types of deposits (eg FDRs as well as dividend from equity shares and mutual funds and share from cooperative society) may also be included within the scope of section 80TTA. 102.	Section 115BAA and 115BAB – Request to allow deduction u/s 80G	Finance Act 2021 provided for not to allow deduction under section 80G where the companies have opted for beneficial provisions of section 115BAA or 115BAB. Doing charity is a commendable thing and the same should be promoted by the Government for well being of society at large. Before the amendment made by Finance Act 2020, the donations made were considered for deduction under section 80G and same could enable the tax payer to save partial tax on the same. This would motivate the donor to donate and do more and more charitable activity which actually contributes to one of the objectives of the Government.	It is suggested to include donations qualifying for deductions u/s section 80G for assessees opting for tax under the provisions of section 115BAA or section 115BAB. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

104.	Section 115BAC – Mediclaim expenditure u/s 80D may be allowed/included and other concerns	The Finance Act 2020 inserted a new section 115BAC providing individual and HUF tax payers an option to opt for alternative taxation rates from AY 2021-22 (FY 2020-21). The same is in line with the option provided to domestic companies under Taxation Laws Amendment Act, 2019 (TLAA) subject to non-availability of certain exemptions and deductions. It is beneficial only for tax payers who do not invest and/or save for tax benefits. It would put more money in the hands of such tax payers. However, certain concerns enumerated below merit consideration.

		(A) Allowance of mediclaim premium/medical expenditure u/s 80D given limited medicare and social security net Under section 80D, premium paid towards medical insurance for family members are allowed as deduction from taxable income. Till the time subsidized medical/healthcare facilities are available to all tax payers, it may be considered that at least medical insurance premium paid for family members allowable as deduction u/s 80D be allowed u/s 115BAC. It would continue to encourage all tax payers including the ones opting for concessional tax regime to keep their mediclaim policy alive.	(A) It is suggested that at least deduction u/s 80D i.e. premium paid for keeping medical insurance policy for self and family members be allowed as a deduction even for assessees opting for section 115BAC in order encourage such tax payers to keep their Mediclaim policy alive, considering limited affordable healthcare facilities in the country.
		(B) Clarification regarding applicability of section 115BAC to 'Non-Resident' Individual The new tax regime under section 115BAC is available to all individuals and HUFs irrespective of their residential status. Normally Finance Acts provide for different basic exemption limit for resident and non-resident individuals of the age of 60 years or more. There is a case to consider making amendment in section 115BAC so as to provide benefit of proposed provisions to resident individuals only and not to non-residents, in line with the special schemes introduced for domestic companies and resident co-operative societies under sections 115BAA, 115BAB and 115BAD.	(B) It is suggested that applicability of provisions of section 115BAC may be reconsidered in respect of non-resident individuals.
		(C) Concern for employer(s) deducting tax: rates in force As per section 115BAC, the option shall be exercised for every previous year where the individual or the HUF has no business income, and in other cases the option once exercised for a previous year shall be valid for that previous year and all subsequent years. However, the employer liable to deduct TDS on such	(C) It is suggested that suitable legislative amendment be made in section 192 as well as the relevant Finance Act so that employers may deduct tax at the rates specified in section 115BAC for employees opting for the same, on the basis of declaration filed by the employee.

Sr. No	Section	Issue/Justification	Suggestion
		employees opting for section 115BAC would find it difficult to deduct tax at the rates mentioned in the said section due to application of governing section 192(1) which specifies that tax is to be computed on the basis of the rates in force for the financial year in which the payment is made. Rates in force are specified in the Part III of the First Schedule to the relevant Finance Act. Accordingly, for employees opting for proposed section 115BAC, amendment needs to be made so that employer may deduct tax on concessional rates as provided instead of rates in force, after obtaining declaration from those employees who intend to opt for section 115BAC. Further, in case the employees change their option later on at the time of filing return, an employer who has deducted tax on the basis of the declaration filed by the employee (as to exercise or otherwise of option u/s 115BAC) should not be treated as an assessee-in-default. (D) Gross savings and capital formation would be impacted as tax savings lead to mandatory savings It may be taken into consideration that the option u/s 115BAC increases risk on next generation, removing in built social security mechanism in the present tax regime. Life insurance – Most people have taken insurance only due to income tax benefits and start at young age when premium is low. Now, most of them would miss taking life insurance due to ignorance and pressure of low income (high cost of living). Savings for long term (post retirement) - Many young assessees will miss saving in PPF/ NSS and similar schemes. Also, for the Government, this was a good source of long term funds. In other words, the concerned assessee may opt for proposed concessional tax	It is suggested that section 115BAC may be introduced only after putting in place adequate social security benefits for assessees opting for concessional tax rates and thereby not investing in long term retirement benefit schemes like PPF/NPS etc.

		rates subject to forgoing certain exemptions and deductions currently available like contribution to PPF, contribution to NPS, Term Life insurance premium etc. Some of such expenditure are basically long-term retirement savings which are opted by tax payers considering the tax benefits available. Such important savings cum investments would be considerably reduced if an individual opts for new concessional tax rates. As is well known, our country does not offer any significant social security benefits unlike some of the developed nations. Long term retirement savings would be considerably reduced and such tax payers in the long term may suffer. Also, investment in housing may reduce as interest on loan for self-occupied house property {u/s 24(b)} and principal repayment for such housing loan (u/s 80C) won't be available. Adequate social security measures to be put in place before introducing section 115BAC. Further, there are many calculations which show that the alternate tax structure for individuals is not really beneficial due to removal of standard deduction, multiple slabs, etc. As individuals cannot afford to spend on consultation, from ease of tax perspective, it may also be considered to have only one tax structure (as present one) and reduce the tax rates. Eg, tax slabs such as Rs 5 lacs to 20lacs - 5%; Rs 20lacs to Rs 50 lacs 10%; Rs 50 lacs to Rs 100lacs - 20% and above Rs 100 lacs - 30%. This will ensure more disposable income and many will also come into tax net. (E) Need for legislative amendment for individuals having income upto Rs 5 lakhs and availing rebate u/s 87A It may be noted that section 115BAC starts with a non-obstante clause i.e. notwithstanding anything contained in	It is suggested that section 115BAC may be suitably amended so that eligible resident individuals can avail rebate u/s 87A.

		the Income-tax Act, 1961. However, due to this, a concern has arisen for individuals having income upto Rs 5 lakhs opting for section 115BAC. Section 87A pertaining to rebate of income-tax in case of certain individuals provides that resident individual taxpayers having total income up to Rs 5 lakhs will get full tax rebate and therefore, will not be required to pay any income tax. The same intent has been put forth by Hon'ble Finance Minister as well. As per proposed section 115BAC, resident individuals having income upto Rs 5 lakhs opting for section 115BAC may not be able to have the benefit of section 87A rebate. It requires suitable legislative amendment.	(SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

AY 2012-13 provides that where the regular income tax payable by a person, other than a company, for a previous year is less than the alternate minimum tax for such previous year, the person would be required to pay income tax @ 18.5% on its adjusted total income. Section 115BBDA as inserted vide the Finance Act 2016 and applicable w.e.f. AY 2017-18 provides that income by way of dividend in excess of Rs. 10 lakh is chargeable to tax @ 10% on gross basis in case of all resident assessees except domestic company and certain funds, trusts, institutions, etc. Issue arises when both the provisions are applicable to an assessee and it needs to be considered which rate of tax to be applied (i.e. whether 10% or 18.5%). On a joint reading of both the provisions, it comes out that while dividend income in excess of Rs. 10 Lakhs would attract tax @ 10% u/s 115BBDA of the Income-tax Act 1961, the assessee might have to pay tax @ 18.50%, if Alternate Minimum Tax (AMT) were to be applicable u/s 115JC	It is requested to recommend suitable amendments in the provisions of section 115BBDA and/or section 115JC of the Income-tax Act, 1961 so as clarify their applicability in case both the provisions are applicable to an assessee. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS) of the Income-tax Act 1961, and in most cases it would, if dividend income were to constitute a major portion of the total income. However, both the sections start with a non-obstante clause, i.e. 'notwithstanding anything contained in this Act' and therefore, there appears to be an apparent contradiction or repugnancy between the provisions. Principles of harmonious interpretation suggest that both the provisions have to made workable. In this regard, the Apex Court has held in a number of judgments that it is a rule of construction that if two special statutes contain non obstante clauses excluding the applicability of other statutes, as in 'notwithstanding anything contained in the Act or any other law for the time being in force', the latter enactment shall prevail. If, however, one is a general Statute and the other a special Statute, then this rule may not apply, and the purpose sought to be achieved by the special enactment needs to be examined {Case laws referred - Maharashtra Tubes Ltd. Vs. State Industrial and Investment Corporation of India (1993) 2 SCC 144, Allahabad Bank vs. Canara Bank (2000) 4 SCC 406, Bank of India vs. Ketan Parekh (2008) 8 SCC 148}. This is a rare situation where in the same enactment (i.e. Income-tax Act, 1961), two or more non obstante clauses are to be dealt and is applicable to one and the same assessee. Both sections 115BBDA and 115JC of the Income-tax Act, 1961 are special provisions inserted for taxing specific incomes under special Chapters in the Income-tax Act, 1961. On applying the ratio of the Supreme Court judgements as cited above, albeit rendered in the context of two enactments, it appears that section 115BBDAof the Income-tax act, 1961, being a latter insertion in the Accordingly, it needs to be clearly specified which provision (or rate of tax) shall prevail in case both sections 115BBDA and section 115JC of the Income-tax Act, 1961 are applicable to an assessee. Similar issue arises when section 112A (rate of tax @ 10%) and section 115JC/115JB (rate of tax @ 15%) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 is applicable to an assessee.

Consequent amendment is required in the definition of the term 'income' under Section 2(24) of the Income-tax Act to include the income from transfer of carbon credits. Further, the position regarding taxability of income from transfer of carbon credits for earlier years may be clarified since there have been divergent decisions given by the courts on whether such receipts are capital or revenue in nature. If the tax treatment is made applicable for earlier years also, it would garner more revenue from assessees who have not offered the same to tax on the ground that the same represents capital receipt. This is due to the fact that there has been a phenomenal increase in transactions in virtual digital assets and considering the magnitude and frequency of such transactions requiring the need for a specific tax regime. Accordingly, certain new sections have been inserted (Section 115BBH & 194S) and others amended (Section 2 & 56) for the same. This is welcome move and need of the hour in contemporary times. However, even after a comprehensive taxation regime as provided, there are certain concerns that needs to be addressed for providing ease to concerned taxpayers for making compliances in this regard.
		Issue I - Specific head to be specified under which income can be offered for taxation purposes The Finance Act 2022 has not provided for the specific head under which income from virtual digital assets would be offered for taxation purposes. The Income-tax Act, 1961 (Act) provides for 5 heads under which an income can be offered for taxation purposes. In the absence of a specific head being provided under the law, taxpayers may offer the income from VDA under different heads and issues may arise leading to avoidable litigation and wastage of precious unnecessary resources to handle the same. 		specify/define exclusions from VDA In order to avoid litigation on the issue of what constitutes VDA, there is a need to clearly define the VDA with specific exclusions and inclusions. The current provision under section 2(47A) has certain issues. The current definition does not lay down clearly the exclusions and inclusions in VDA. Such a definition would unnecessarily lead to litigations which is a burden on both the concerned taxpayer and the ITD. As per the specified clause, a virtual digital asset means any information or code or number or token (not being Indian currency or any foreign currency), generated through cryptographic means or otherwise, by whatever name called, providing a digital representation of value which is exchanged with or without consideration, with the promise or representation of having inherent value, or functions as a store of value or a unit of account and includes its use in any financial transaction or investment, but not limited to, investment schemes and can be transferred, stored or traded electronically. Non fungible token and any other token of similar nature are included in the definition. The said definition of VDA may be further improvised and clear-cut exclusions and inclusions may be specified as far as possible in the Act itself which may go a long way in avoiding litigations on this front.	as per section 2(47A) of the Act be suitably modified and improvised so that inclusions and exclusions from VDA be clearly spelt out in the Act itself which will provide a specific definition and intent to tax such VDAs thereby avoiding unnecessary litigations in this regard. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CERTAIN COMPANIES

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS

110.	Section 115JB/115JC - – May be consider for Removal of MAT/AMT	MAT stands for Minimum Alternate Tax and AMT stands for Alternate Minimum Tax. Initially the concept of MAT was introduced for companies and progressively it has been made applicable to all other taxpayers in the form of AMT. MAT rate was lowered to 15 per cent from 18.5 per cent for companies that continued to claim exemptions. MAT is the minimum amount of tax required to be paid by a company, in case its normal tax liability after claiming deductions falls below a certain limit. MAT credit will also not apply to companies opting for the new rates. The new section – Section 115BAA has been inserted in the Income Tax Act,1961 to give the benefit of a reduced corporate tax rate for the domestic companies. Section 115BAA states that domestic companies have the option to pay tax at a rate of 22% plus surcharge of 10% and cess of 4%. Moreover, if companies opt for Section 115BAA, they need not to pay tax under tax under MAT. Moreover, if companies opt for Section 115BAA, they need not to pay tax under tax under MAT. After introduction of new Section 115BBA, now limited assesses are exposed to MAT, therefore it is creating unnecessary complications. It may be removed. Therefore, MAT/AMT may be abolished.	It is suggested that that it may be considered for removal/abolition of MAT/AMT under sections 115JB and 115JC respectively. (SUGGESTIONS FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

Pursuant to enactment of IBC, the Sick Industrial Companies Act (SICA) has been repealed and provisions are made to enable sick companies undergoing resolution through BIFR to approach National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT). IBC provides for implementation of resolution plan which is intended to revive distressed companies in a time bound manner under the creditor in command process. Stakeholders have been facing enormous bottlenecks due to lack of clarity on tax issues. Unfortunately, there is no provision in IBC or Income-tax Act which provides for an overriding impact of resolution plan sanctioned by NCLT. The Finance Act, 2018 has provided that while computing book profits u/s 115JB of the Income-tax Act, a deduction will be allowed for aggregate of book profits and unabsorbed depreciation in case of companies in respect of which an application for initiating resolution process has been accepted by the adjudicating authority. Issues: (i) The language used in Section 115JB creates a confusion as to whether aggregate of losses and depreciation as per books is to be considered for deduction or whether aggregate of losses and depreciation as computed for tax purposes is to be considered for downward adjustment from book profits. (ii) The scheme of MAT is linked to book profits. The legislative intent also appears to be to refer to the amounts as per books of accounts. However, the language as is presently used in Section 115JB creates ambiguity. (iii) Re-organisation by way of merger of distressed company is one of	per books of account. 112.	Section 115JB - Minimum Alternate tax	It appears that Disallowance/Adding back of provision for diminution in value of any asset for computation of "book profit" is to be made in case of every class of company {clause (i) to Explanation 1 to section 115JB(2)}. However, in case of banking companies, the Government may reconsider applicability of the disallowance provision. This is because of the fact that in computation of business income under normal provision, deduction in respect of provision for bad debts is allowed under express provision contained in section 36(1)(viia) subject to the limit specified in the said section. If provision for bad debts is allowed as deduction in computation of business income under normal provision, there does not appear to be any cogent reason for disallowing the same in computation of "book profit" under section 115JB. Similarly, any special reserve created in accordance with the provisions of section 36(1)(viii) also does not require any disallowance in computation of book profit under section 115JB.	Clause (b) and (i) of Explanation 1 to section 115JB may be amended as follows- "(b) the amounts carried to any reserves, by whatever name called [other than a reserve specified under section 33AC and a reserve created and allowed in accordance with the provisions of section 36(1)(viii)] … (i) the amount or amounts set aside as provision for diminution in the value of any asset (other than provision for bad and doubtful debts allowed as a deduction under section 36(1)(viia))" (SUGGESTIONS TO REDUCE/ MINIMIZE LITIGATIONS)

114.	Section 115 JB – Clarification regarding 'adjusted'	Section 115JB which provides for levy of MAT on companies was, inter alia, amended by the Finance Act, 2017, with effect from 1.4.2017 to include sub-sections (2A), (2B) and (2C) in the said section. sub-sections (2A), (2B) and (2C) are applicable to companies which are required to comply with IND AS and are required to maintain their accounts as per the Companies (Indian Accounting Standard) Rules, 2015. Sub-section (2C) of section 115JB of the Act provides that the book profit of such assessee for the year of convergence and each of the following four years shall further be increased or decreased, as the case may be, by 1/5th of the 'transition amount'. The Explanation defines the year of convergence to mean the previous year in which the conversion date falls, that is to say, the year in which the companies have opted for disclosing their accounts under IND AS. 'Transition amount' has further been defined in Clause (iii) of the Explanation to mean the amount or the aggregate of the amounts adjusted in the other equity (excluding capital reserve and security premium reserve) on the convergence date, but not including the amounts enumerated in the Explanation. The reference to the term 'adjusted' in the definition means that the same will cover cases, where there has been revaluation of assets or liabilities on the convergence date and the difference between the original amount and the revalued amount has been adjusted (reflected in the other equity). 		'transition amount'. The context and object of the provision also indicate that the term 'transition amount' would only encompass a profit or a loss which have not been routed through profit and loss account but have been routed through the schedule of 'other equity' at the time of convergence, but it will ultimately have a bearing on the profits of the companies, either in this year or any subsequent year. The circular no.2/2018 [F.NO.370142/15/2017-TPL] dated 15th February 2018 issued by CBDT explaining the relevant provisions of Finance Act,2017 has stated as under : "I. RATIONALISATION MEASURES Rationalisation of provisions of section 115JB in line with Indian Accounting Standard (Ind-AS) ..... B. Several of these items would subsequently never be reclassified to the statement of profit and loss / included in the computation of book profits. Accordingly, the following treatment is proposed: ...... (I)... (II)... (III) All other adjustments recorded in Reserves and Surplus (excluding Capital Reserve and Securities Premium Reserve) as referred to in Division II of Schedule III of Companies Act, 2013 and which would otherwise never subsequently be reclassified to the profit and loss account, shall be included in the book profits, equally over a period of five years starting from the year of first time adoption of Ind AS subject to the following—

Sr. No	Section	Issue/Justification	Suggestion
		……" From the above it is clear that what is intended to be included in the term 'transition amount' is only adjustments which would otherwise have impact in the profitability of the assessee but on account of adoption of IND AS, the same are adjusted in other equity schedule and not Profit and Loss account. A transaction not having a bearing on Profit and Loss account was never intended to be covered by the amendment. It is therefore clear that merely because an amount has been reclassified to the other equity on transition it cannot be said to be "adjusted" to the other equity for the purposes of section 115 JB(2C). The amount should be in nature of revenue receipt and has potential impact on profits of the company either in the year of transition or in future. A capital receipt or any amount which is merely included or reflected in other equity but has no connection or impact of P&L of the company cannot be considered for inclusion in transition amount. Absence of any clarity in this regard is creating a situation where pure capital receipts are being included in transition amount and additions are being made to the book profits and taxes are being demanded on an item which by no logic or rationale can ever be said to be income of the company. As an example, case of Zero Coupon Optionally Fully Convertible Debentures can be seen. These are shown under borrowings and liability under the Indian GAAP, whereas as per IndAS they are instruments entirely equity in nature and are required to be shown under "other equity". The instrument doesn't have any relation with the profit or loss of the company. Under the instrument money is raised and repaid on redemption or is converted into equity.

Sr. No	Section	Issue/Justification	Suggestion
		However, by mere reflection of the amount under "other equity" the same is being included in the transition amount. Taxing the amount of capital receipt when it is never an income of the assessee and is also repaid is clearly against the object and purpose of the section. In order to avoid long drawn multiple litigations it in necessary that the section 115JB(2C) is amended to clarify that the term "adjusted" referred to in the transition amount is of the nature where any amount is included or taken to the "other equity" which otherwise would have had an impact on the profit or loss account either of current year or future year.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO TAX ON DISTRIBUTED PROFITS OF DOMESTIC COMPANIES

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS

115.	Section 115-O - Inclusion of loans within section 2(22)(e)	Section 2(22)(e) is now amended to provide that, in the event of grant of loans and advances by closely held company either to the shareholders having 10% equity or to a concern in which such 10% equity holder has 20% beneficial ownership, which the company possesses. Such tax will be payable regardless of the fact that the loan may have been given against proper interest and may have been repaid on due date. When a loan is given to a tainted concern, there has been a controversy whether the amount of dividend needs to be taxed in the hands of equity holder (who holds a nexus with the concern) or in the hands of the concern. Issues: (i) There could have been basic debate whether any such provision is at all fair where loans and advances are given either on proper interest and re-payment terms or when loans and advances are given in connection with the business needs or in the ordinary course of business. Avoidable litigation has arisen even in cases where the advances are given for the purpose of purchase of goods in the ordinary course of business. The said amendment makes the provision stupendously unfair. (ii) The limit of 10% shareholding, which can establish nexus with the concern is considered in practice to be considerably low and impractical. It is quite possible that an investor like PE investor or a passive investor may create such a situation without the concerns being aware of the same. Further,	It is suggested that: (i) The continuance of the base provision itself in the current form may be re-considered. 		the requirement is beneficial holding in the concern. It may not be possible for a company giving loan to ascertain the beneficial holding of its shareholders in another concern. The company will be dependent wholly on the certification of the shareholder. Further, if the company proceeds on the basis of the certification provided by shareholder and the same were to be untrue, there might be adverse consequences considering the company and its principal officer will be regarded as assessee in default and all consequences of interest, penalty prosecution, etc. will consequently follow. (iii) One wonders whether the controversy (which is at the genesis of the said amendment) could have been taken care of by specifying in an explicit manner whether the amount will be chargeable in the hands of the concern or in the hands of the concerned shareholder. That alone was the controversy, and a difficult solution may be avoided to get rid of the controversy (iv) The company will have extreme consequences of not being able to comply with the provision. This may often be due to unawareness. Unwarranted litigation may accrue on such subject. (v) It could be within the corporate governance for one company to give a loan to another on fair terms. Taxability in the hands of the company in the form of DDT – that too, where a mere 10% holder has shares in the company is a harsh blow to the remaining 90% of the shareholders who lose their value on simultaneous basis upto the amount of tax paid. 118.	Section 139 – Reduction in time to file belated and revised income tax return forms	The Finance Act. 2021 amended sub-sections (4) and (5) of section 139 so as to reduce time to file belated and revised returns of income by 3 months to 31st December of AY from the end of the AY currently. Issue As per Finance Act 2021, now the due date for filing belated return is 31 December of the AY. It may create hardship to taxpayers as well as tax practitioners. Number of taxpayers requires filed ITR forms for the purpose of loan application, VISA, Income certificate, TDS refund and other purposes. But reducing the time period of filling the belated/revised return of income may result in missing the time of filing the ITR forms. This may happen due to various reasons like unawareness, health issues and many other reasons. Also, scrutiny assessments shall also be completed in the same time frame. This will burden the concerned assessees as well as tax practitioners. Other due dates in different Statutes are also prescribed within the same period majorly in September to December eg ROC filings, GST Returns and others. Reducing the time for filing belated/revised return by 3 months may lead to unnecessary burden to taxpayers and tax practitioners. By virtue of amendment to Section 139(4), no person can file belated return beyond 31st December of the assessment year. The reduction in time may create hardships for taxpayers eg due to reduction in time of filing, many assessees who have not filed Income tax returns due to genuine reasons may not be able to get loan from bank, insurance etc. Government is already	It is suggested that the amendments in section 139(4)/(5) made via Finance Act 2021 may be omitted so that current timelines to file belated/revised return of income of one year from the end of AY may continue. (SUGGESTION FOR REMOVAL OF ADMINISTRATIVE AND PROCEDURAL DIFFICULTIES RELATING TO DIRECT TAXES)

Also, distinction between a working and a non-working partner of a firm has been removed with respect to the due date as specified above. Issue The due date of filing return of income of assessees subject to tax audit is extended from 30th September to 31st October of the AY. However, an assessee who is required to furnish a report referred to in section 92E are required to file their ITR forms by 30th November of the AY. It is suggested that the current gap of 2 months may be maintained between filing of ITR forms for assessees subject to tax audit and assessees liable to transfer audit. Accordingly, the due date for furnishing return for assessees required to file a report under section 92E may be extended to 31st December of the AY from current 30th November of the AY.	It is suggested that the clause (aa) to Explanation 2 to section 139(1) be suitably amended so that due date to file ITR form for assessee who is required to furnish a report referred to in section 92E be extended to 31st December of the AY from 30th November of the AY in line with amendment in section 139(1) vide the Finance Act 2020. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		the Act contain provisions relating to the filing of belated and revised returns of income respectively. The belated or revised returns under sub-sections (4) and (5) respectively of the said section before such amendment could be filed before the end of the assessment year or before the completion of the assessment whichever is earlier. Further, that with the massive technological upgrade in the Department where the processes under the Act are moving towards becoming faceless and jurisdiction-less, the time taken to conduct and complete such processes has greatly reduced. Therefore, it is suggested that the last date for filing of belated or revised returns of income, as the case may be, be reduced by three months. Thus, the belated return or revised return could now be filed three months before the end of the relevant assessment year or before the completion of the assessment, whichever is earlier. Issue Since a person required to furnish transfer pricing report can file return by November 30th, the amended sub-section (5) to section 139 will allow only one (1) month to such a person to revise return, which is too less time.

The new provisions, inter alia, provides for permitting specified taxpayers to file an Updated Return on payment of additional tax. This updated return can be filed within two years from the end of the relevant assessment year. It's a welcome step for promoting voluntary tax compliance and also avoiding unnecessary litigations as well. However, certain concerns as raised below needs to be addressed for better implementation of the scheme.

		Issue I - Need to provide provisions for assessees reporting reduction in losses in their Updated return The relevant provisions envisages that section 139(8A) shall not apply, if the updated return, is a return of a loss or has the effect of decreasing the total tax liability determined on the basis of return furnished under section 139 or results in refund or increases the refund due on the basis of return furnished u/s 139, of such person under the Act for the relevant assessment year. The said provision inadvertently misses a situation wherein a person would like to report reduction in losses. Needless to say, reduction in losses is akin to increase in income and accordingly should come under the purview of the said provisions. Accordingly, the relevant provisions need to be amended to provide for such a situation wherein an assessee voluntary wishes to file the updated return and reporting reduction in losses. Also, as of now, the provisions does not provide for a proper refund mechanism of prepaid taxes. It may also be considered to include cases with refund for filing of the updated returns. The refunds may be subjected to some penalty on similar lines with the additional tax. This will enable assessees to furnish ITRs who have missed filing of returns due to genuine reasons.	I. It is suggested that provisions of section 139(8A) be suitably amended so as to provide for a situation wherein assessees wishing to file updated returns for furnishing reduction in losses be permitted to do so. It is further suggested that refund cases may also be permitted subject to levy of penalty at reasonable rates.
		Issue II – Suitable reduction in rates of additional income-tax payable and that too on tax amount only excluding interest The provisions of section 140B, inter alia, provides that the additional tax, payable at the time of furnishing the return under section 139(8A), shall be equal to 25% of aggregate of tax and	II. 		interest payable, as specified, if such return is furnished after expiry of the time available under section 139(4)/(5) and before completion of period of twelve months from the end of the relevant assessment year. However, if such return is furnished after the expiry of twelve months from the end of the relevant assessment year but before completion of the period of twenty-four months from the end of the relevant assessment year, the additional tax payable shall be 50% of aggregate of tax and interest payable. The aforesaid provision appears to be pretty harsh and may discourage voluntary compliance from concerned taxpayers. In order to encourage taxpayers to come forward and accept the tax liability inadvertently missed, the current rates of tax i.e. 25% & 50% appears to be on a higher side. This high rate of additional tax payable instead of encouraging, may discourage as penal tax amount would be very high and concerned taxpayer may choose to further evade it instead of coming forward and having a clean slate. Even otherwise, high rates of additional income-tax appears to be against the objective of introducing the said provision of filing updated return. Further, the said additional tax would be calculated on income tax amount due as well as on interest payable. That would again lead to high tax incidence on the concerned taxpayer coupled with the fact of already higher rates of 25/50% additional tax. In order to ease tax burden and to achieve the true intent of introducing provision of filing of updated tax returns voluntarily by concerned taxpayers, it may well be considered to reduce current rates of 25/50% and that too to be calculated and payable on income tax component only excluding interest amount payable.	component only clearly excluding the interest amount to encourage voluntary compliance in true sense.

Here, there is a case of relaxing this condition i.e. updated return may be permitted in cases where assessment proceedings have been completed and where assessment proceedings are pending, updated return may continue to be non-permitted. In cases where assessment proceedings are completed, it is clear that concerned taxpayer is coming forward on a voluntary basis as such incomes have not been caught in the assessment proceedings completed. This is also one of the objectives behind introduction of provisions of updated returns.	condition in section 139(8A) pertaining to making assessees ineligible to file updated return in cases where any proceeding for assessment or reassessment or recomputation or revision of income under the Act is pending or has been completed for the relevant assessment year in his case may be suitably relaxed and accordingly allow filing of updated returns wherein assessment proceedings have been completed. (SUGGESTIONS TO REDUCE / MINIMIZE LITIGATIONS)

As per the provision of section 155(14) "the credit of TDS/TCS certificates is available to assessee within 2 years from the end of the assessment year in which such income is assessable" but since the payment & certificates are received after the above-mentioned period, it is difficult to get the credit for the same. In the case of interest, interest on compensation is also not taxable on the theory that when principal transaction (Compensation) is outside the ambit of taxation, then similar fate must follow for the subsidiary transaction (i.e. interest on compensation). The matter of MACT compensation coming to litigation is because of the following sections in Income-tax Act, 1961- (1) Main reason - Section 194A(3)(ixa) requiring tax to be deducted on interest on compensation awarded by MACT, where the aggregate amount of Income paid during the financial year exceeds Rs 50,000/-, (2) Section 145A(b) requires that Interest received on compensation or enhanced compensation shall be accounted on receipt basis, (3) Section 56(2) has listed in clause (viii), Income received on compensation or on enhanced compensation referred to in Section 145A(b) to be taxed under Income from other source, (4) Section 57(iv) allows deduction of	It is suggested to (1) scrap TDS on interest awarded by Motor accident claim Tribunal and (2) Insert a specific exemption under section 10 for amount received on Compensation, enhanced compensation and interest on compensation awarded by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal. 194A(3)(ixa) may be omitted and in section 194A(3)(ix), word 'or paid' can be inserted between 'credited' and 'by way of interest'. There are separate exemptions available under 10(10B) for compensation received by a workman under Industrial Dispute Act, under 10(10BB) any payments received under the Bhopal Gas Leak Disaster (Processing of Claims) Act, 10(10BC) compensation received from Government on account of any disaster. 		50% of income referred to section 56(2)(viii). Even though section 145A(b), 56(2)(viii) and 57(iv) says only about compensation generally, it is section 194A(3)(ixa) which created biggest problem and confusion because, it specifically says about TDS on Interest on Motor Accident Claim Tribunal. Even though provision of TDS and taxable Income works separately under present system of Income Tax, simply by insertion of TDS on interest on MACT has given an impression that interest on MACT itself is a taxable income which created confusion and consequent litigations. 1. There are various legal decisions which ruled that MACT compensation is ab-initio not an income. Actually, when something is not at all an income and does not fall under the purview of Income-tax Act, 1961 for taxation, there is no need to give an exemption under section 10. Only those income which are otherwise taxable and as a relief measure, Government wants to not to tax it, exemption under 10 is to be provided. Even disaster compensation mentioned under section 10(10BC) is not an income ab-initio for giving an exemption. However, insertion of such exemption is clarificatory in nature and stops any possible litigation, which is an unwanted wastage of time and which aggravate the sufferings of those who have already suffered the impact of catastrophe. Hence for MACT compensation also, on similar line, an exemption should be provided. 2. Person who is getting claim under MACT are those who had already	compensation for permanent disability. 		deduction of tax at source under section 194A of the Income-tax Act, 1961. It is suggested that section 194A should not apply to NBFCs as: a) NBFCs principal business is of lending money under various products just like Banking Company or a co-operative Bank. b) There is no mechanism for deduction of tax on interest paid by the assessees as the NBFCs collect cheques of EMI for the tenure of loan. c) NBFCs are also regulated by RBI just like Banking Company and a Co-operative Bank. Considering the fact that there is no mechanism for deduction of tax on interest paid by the assessees as the NBFCs collect cheques of EMI for the tenure of loan, the non-compliance of the provisions of this section is inevitable. However, the said provision creates problem for the assessee who has borrowed money as he is unable to claim deduction in respect of said interest due to operation of section 40(a)(ia).

		Digital India programme. One of the key initiatives of the government is to channelize all payments through Digital mode. It has come up with many incentives for using digital mode of payments and with certain dis-incentive for using cash mode of payments. As part of promoting cashless transactions and converting India into less-cash society, various modes of digital payments are available. One of the modes is a point of sale (PoS). It is the place where sales are made. On a macro level, a PoS may be a mall, a market or a city. On a micro level, retailers consider a PoS to be the area where a customer completes a transaction, such as a checkout counter. It is also known as a point of purchase. It is a well-known fact that people still consider cash as the safest way to buy things. Hence, when somebody goes to a small shop, cash is the preferred way of payment. However, some companies are trying to change the way people transact and even on small outlets like Pan-shops, nearby grocery shops, the companies are pushing to transact digitally using e-Wallet. It requires a lot of push as this entails a behavioral change for the customer who needs to change his preferred mode of payment from cash to digital mode as well as for the merchant who is also supposed to accept payments digitally instead of traditional cash. While convenience and accountability is the key to digital payments, for the customer and merchants to change their behavior, government is giving incentives. In this scenario, the e-commerce operator will face difficulties in recovering TDS from the e-commerce participant. Cost of such TDS will have to be borne by the e-commerce operator, if the same is not reimbursed by the e-commerce participant. Quite often, e-commerce operators charge delivery fee and sometimes offer discount on the products sold by the e-commerce participants. For example, a mobile company as an e-commerce participant offers mobile phone at INR 10,000 as per the list price and the e-commerce operator charges a delivery fee of INR 100, thereby making the total amount payable by the customer as INR 10,100. As a promotional offer, the e-commerce operator offers discount of INR 500 on the list price thereby offering the mobile phone at INR 9,600. This deduction is not required to be made, if the value or aggregate of value of the benefit or perquisite provided or likely to be provided to the resident during the financial year does not exceed Rs 20,000. The responsibility of tax deduction also does not apply to a person, being an Individual/Hindu undivided family (HUF) deductor, whose total sales / gross receipts / gross turnover from business does not exceed Rs 1 crore, or from profession does not exceed Rs 50 lakh rupees, during the financial year immediately preceding the financial year in which such benefit or perquisite is provided by him. Issues Being a new provision, persons liable to deduct tax are facing genuine difficulties in its implementation. There are penal provisions for non deduction of tax at source in general. An issue currently being faced is the determination of 'benefit 'or 'perquisite' for the purpose of section 194R. It is of utmost importance as tax is to be deducted on the value of 'benefit' or 'perquisite'. We are appreciative of the fact that the CBDT has already proactively come out with 2 Circulars on section 194R providing clarifications on various aspects including determination and value of 'benefit' or 'perquisite. However, such clarifications are situation and business specific, so there is a need to clearly define the term 'benefit' or 'perquisite' in the Income-tax law itself. It would codify the definition of the aforesaid terms and would minimise litigations arising in this behalf and would also be a step in promoting ease of doing business. It is pertinent to mention that the two Circulars issued by the CBDT i.e Circular No. 12/2022 dated 16.06.2022	profession gives any benefit or perquisite to a person carrying on business or profession. It is also suggested that the power of the authority issuing the aforesaid Circulars needs to be regulated as certain issues/confusions have arisen. There appears to be certain arguable stands taken in these Circulars like certain benefits are classified as taxable perquisites, but they are subjective and liable to litigation. E.g. in Circular No. 12/2022 dated 16.06.2022, Q. 		and Circular No.18/2022 dated 13.09.2022 giving the Guidelines for Removal of Difficulties under Section 194R(2) have created some confusion as well. These Circulars appear to go beyond the legislative intent stated in the Memorandum explaining the provisions of the Finance Bill, 2022. Some of the issues creating confusion on reading the above circular are listed below. The Tax Deductor need not consider whether the benefit or perquisite is taxable or not in the hands of the recipient under Section 28(iv), 41(1) etc. The provisions of section 194R will apply even if the recipient is not carrying or business or profession. Section 194R applies even if the benefit or perquisite is provided in kind. This is contrary to the decision of the Supreme Court in the Case of Mahindra and Mahindra Ltd 404ITR 1 (SC). Section 194R applies if the benefit or perquisite is in the form of a Capital Asset. This will imply that if a Capital Asset is sold by the Tax Deductor to any person at a price below fair market value, the TDS provision under section 194R will apply. It may so happen that the difference between the FMV and the actual consideration is less than 10% and the provisions of section 50C or 56(2)(x) are not applicable. Incentives given to a customer in cash or kind will be liable to TDS under Section 194R. The customer may not be carrying on business or profession and section 28(iv) is not applicable to him. Value of such incentive may be less than Rs. 50,000/- and Section 56(2)(x) may not be applicable to him. In other words, even if such incentive is not taxable in the hands of the customer, he will suffer TDS. In the CBDT Circular dated 13.09.2022, it is stated that Section 194R will not apply to issue of Bonus or Right Shares by a Company in which public have substantial interest as defined in Section 2(18) of the Incometax Act. This implies that Bonus or Rights Shares issued by a Private or Public Company when public have no substantial interest will be subject to TDS under Section 194R. In CBDT Circular dated 16.06.22, it is stated that any benefit or perquisite given to a Government Entity, like Government Hospital, not carrying on business or profession is not liable to TDS under Section 194R. This implies that benefit or perquisite (e.g. Donation) given to any other Charitable Trust, Educational Institution, Hospital set up by a Company or an Individual will be subject to the TDS provision and the Donor will have to deduct tax at Source from the Donation amount although such Donation is exempt under Section 12. From the above, it will be noticed that wording of Section 194R and the above two CBDT Circulars have created some confusion. In some cases, the benefit or perquisite may not be taxable in the hands of the recipient and yet tax will be deducted at source. A question may arise whether in such cases, credit will be given to the recipient for tax deducted under section 194R or under Section 199. Section 194R applies only if the benefit or perquisite is taxable in the hands of the recipient. Section 194R applies only if the aggregate value of the benefits or perquisites exceed Rs.50,000/- in a financial year.

		of the overall Digital Payment system which act as a conduit between customers, bank and merchant. These Merchant Aggregators collect money from customer's bank/PPI Wallet and make payment to merchants. In a move aimed at encouraging the transition towards a cashless economy, the CBDT has exempted some payments made to banks and payment service providers from deducting tax at source. These payments include credit card or debit card commissions for transactions between a merchant establishment and the bank. CBDT vide its Notification No. SO 3069(E), dated 31-12-2012, has notified that no deduction of tax under Chapter XVII shall be required on payments of the nature given below, in case such payment is made by a person to a bank, namely:- (vii) Credit card or debit card commission for transaction between merchant establishment and acquirer bank. Exemption under Sec 197A(1F), as given above, was introduced considering the problems being faced by merchants, where, merchants received the transaction value, net of Bank commission from Bank and there was no instance where the merchant made any payment to the Bank and hence it was not feasible for any merchant to withhold tax under the TDS provisions from Bank. Due to the above technical reason, merchants were exempted from the provisions of TDS when the commission was payable to Banks. With new technology and newer ways of making and accepting payments, it is imminent to widen the scope of this exemption. When Merchant Aggregator receives payment from bank for ultimate settlement with merchant, bank makes the payment to Merchant Aggregator	payment to Merchants The above suggestion will remove the deterrent for merchant aggregators as they will be in line with merchant establishment. 162	Section 208 -Revision of Limit of advance tax	The Finance Act (No. 2), 2009 raised the limit to pay advance tax under section 208 to Rs. 10,000. Considering the inflationary conditions prevailing in the country, it is felt that the said limit needs to be revised upwards so that the amount payable in one instalment of the advance tax exceeds at least Rs. 5,000. The present amount of Rs. 2,500 is too low. Infact, any assessee whose advance tax payable does not exceed Rs. 30,000 should be allowed to pay full amount in the last instalment. 		of Principles of Promissory Estoppel. Further, it is provided to abolish the Income Tax Settlement Commission with immediate effect. However, it may be considered that there are a lot of applications which are pending with it currently. Settlement of tax disputes has to be the part of taxation system and without any mechanism to resolve the tax disputes is going to make the life of assessees difficult. The setting up of Dispute Resolution Committee is a welcome step, but the beneficiaries may be limited in view of the ceiling of Rs. 50 Lakh and Rs. 10 Lakh provided therein. The provision to form Dispute Resolution Committee u/s 245M is currently applicable to small and medium taxpayers in whose cases the total Income as per Return is less than Rs. 50 lakhs. The Finance Act 2021 does not speak of any forum before which the large taxpayers can resolve their issues. The provisions regarding constitution of Interim Board provides that every Interim Board shall consist of three members, each being an officer of the rank of Chief Commissioner, as may be nominated by the Board. Composition of Interim Board with only CCITs may not be acceptable and may not achieve the objective and yield desired results. As per this provision, there appears to be ambiguity in the provisions relating to Dispute Resolution Committee and corresponding effect on other related provisions may be considered. As per the provisions, the said penalty order under section 270A has not been made appealable under section 246A i.e., no appeal would lie against the penalty order under section 270A before the first appellate authority i.e., Commissioner (Appeals). Although an amendment has been made in section 253 providing for appeal to Tribunal against such penalty order, no such amendment has been made in section 246A. In a case where the said penalty order is imposed by an Assessing Officer below the rank of Commissioner, it is desirable that an appeal may be filed against the same to Commissioner (Appeals). It may be noted that the penalty order under the erstwhile section 271 is an appealable order under section 246A. 			under section 275(c) is, unfortunately, linked with the date of initiation of proceedings. • Unlike Explanation 3 of section 271(1)(c), in this provision, where return of income is not furnished, penalty will be calculated with reference to tax on income assessed without considering the impact of tax deducted or advance tax paid by taxpayer. For example, in case of a person who is not required to furnish return of income under section 115A(5), tax may have been paid, but, as per new methodology, the whole of the income, as assessed, may be considered as unreported income. Such would also be the case in a situation where there is no revenue loss since the whole of the tax was already paid up and yet, the return may not have been furnished. *• There may be some concern on resolution of the formula specified in the section if, intimation under section 143(1)(a) is not available. 		effective implementation of the new section. In order to reduce the practice of Assessing Officers treating every concealed income as misreported as well as the fact that the new section does not require recording of satisfaction before imposition of penalty proceedings (as was required under the erstwhile section 271), it is desirable that a suitable control mechanism may be put in place. Certain measures like making it mandatory for the Assessing Officers to mention in the Order that every disallowance or addition be specified as either under-reported or misreported. Further, measures like specifying the exact clause from sub-section (2) or (9) of section 270A, in case of under-reporting or misreporting of income respectively in the order would go a long way in reducing disputes and litigation. The said measures would also make it clear to the assessee in time whether he could opt for immunity from penalty and prosecution under section 270AA in case order specifies that he has not misreported the income.	along with the mention of specific clause of section 270A(2)/(9) against each disallowance/addition. 	d) Mere making of a claim which is not sustainable in law would not tantamount to furnishing inaccurate particulars for attracting levy of penalty	Scope of penalty under section 270A has been widened and it would now include within its scope, claims made by the assessee but disallowed by the Assessing Officer. Where no information given in the return is found to be incorrect or inaccurate, and the assessee has disclosed all material facts relevant for assessment, he cannot be held guilty of furnishing inaccurate particulars. In search cases, penalty should ideally be the same irrespective of the time of admission/declaration by the culprit assessee. Assessing officers sometimes puts undue pressure on the assessees during search proceedings to extract the maximum amount of declaration. One of the reasons for the same is the pressure of target achievement by the assessing officers. • In such cases, quality of assessment suffers a lot and high-pitched assessments are made unnecessarily.	It is suggested that the provisions of section 271AAB needs to be simplified. 		section 271AAD(1) mentions only 'a false entry' without the specific requirement that such false entry 'which is relevant for computation of total income of such person, must have been made with an intent to evade tax liability for penalty to be attracted. There is a possibility of a false entry due to recasting of books and/or errors/omissions. Since 'false entry' has been inclusively defined in the Explanation to proposed section 271AAD, there is a possibility that the AOs may invoke this penalty in respect of cases not specifically listed in clauses (a) to (c) thereunder. This has created unrest in the minds of honest taxpayers also. Therefore, the definition must be an exhaustive one and penalty should be attracted only when such entry has been made with an intent to evade tax liability. (b) Consequential amendment required in section 273B as a 'reasonable cause' for penalty imposed under section 271AAD Section 273B provides for cases/ provisions wherein penalty is not imposable if the assessee proves that there was reasonable cause for the said failure. The Finance Act 2020 has not included section 271AAD within the scope of section 273B. Every assessee deserves a reasonable opportunity of being heard especially in case where such harsh penalty is imposed. The very purpose of enacting section 273B is to allow assessees to explain his case and if reasonable cause for non-compliance is found, such penalty is not to be imposed. The TDS/TCS statements form the basis of preparation of annual tax statement in Form No 26AS. The deductee is required to confirm the exact tax deducted/collected at source and remitted to the Government by verifying Form No 26AS online, and thereafter pay the remaining taxes by way of self-assessment tax. However, if TDS/ TCS statements are permitted to be filed within one year of the due date prescribed for each quarter on account of non-levy of penalty, then the same would extend beyond the due date of filing return of income of that assessment year in respect of the second, third and fourth quarters. It may cause genuine hardship to the deductees as they would not be able to verify the TDS/TCS credited to their account, for payment of self-assessment tax before the due date of filing of return of income. Therefore, it is felt that penalty provisions should be attracted if such statements are not filed before due date of filing return of income. Further, Section 271H provides for the minimum and maximum penalty, within which range, penalty can be imposed. The discretionary powers provided to the Assessing Officer in levying a penalty ranging from Rs.10,000 to Rs.1,00,000 may lead to hardship to the assessee. 179.	Genuine hardship faced by tax deductors on account of provisions of section 276B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 attracting prosecution proceedings for delay in remittance of tax to the credit of the Central Government	Under section 276B, the consequence of failure to comply with the provisions of Chapter XVII-B is rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than three months, but which may extend to seven years and with fine. The provisions of section 276B are basically intended to discourage tax deductors from retaining the legitimate government dues unjustly. However, at ground level implementation, notices are being issued for initiation of prosecution proceedings under section 276B even in cases where tax deductors have deposited the tax deducted by them voluntarily after the stipulated time but before any notice has been served upon them. This may be due to the modified guidelines issued in 2013 for identification of cases for initiating prosecution, wherein the criterion of minimum retention period of 12 months has been dispensed with. However, initiation of prosecution proceedings in cases of voluntary deposit of TDS after the stipulated time but before service of notice is causing undue hardship to genuine tax deductors. Voluntary remittance of TDS before issue of notice clearly indicates the absence of any malafide intention on the part of the tax deductors to retain the taxes due to the government. The tax deductors are, in any case, being subject to higher interest @ 1.5% per month or part of a month under section 201(1A) for the period of delay in remittance. The TDS statements submitted by them also clearly reflect the taxes deducted, the date of deduction and the date of remittance along with interest, which indicates the bona fide intent on the part of the deductors to report the correct details to the Department. However, it	It is suggested that the matter may be looked into and appropriate measures may be taken so that prosecution proceedings under section 276B are not initiated against genuine tax deductors, who have deposited the TDS voluntarily after the prescribed time limit but before service of any notice by the department. Further, certain threshold limits may be prescribed to avoid genuine errors in estimations. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		appears that the notices for prosecution are issued on the basis of these information provided by the tax deductors in their TDS statements. It is a settled law that prosecution proceedings are appropriate only in cases where deductors deliberately do not deposit the TDS, since Mens rea or a guilty mind is a sine qua non for attracting prosecution provisions. In this regard, it may be noted that the erstwhile service tax law which provided for a threshold limit of Rs.2 crores for initiating prosecution proceedings in case of failure to pay service tax collected to the credit of the Central Government within a period of 6 months from the date on which such payment becomes due. This implies that only if the service tax collected but not remitted within the prescribed period exceeds Rs. 2 crores, prosecution provisions would be attracted. However, section 276B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 neither prescribes any threshold limit beyond which the prosecution provisions thereunder would be attracted, nor does it prescribe any retention period, after the expiry of which, prosecution proceedings would be initiated. Thus, absence of threshold limit and retention period under this provision of the Income-tax Act, 1961 causes undue hardship even to genuine tax deductors.

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS

184.	Incentive to tax payers – Investment of certain percentage of tax as annuity for the benefit of tax payers as old age support	The Government recognises the contribution made by taxpayers in the development of the nation. It is a well acknowledged fact that tax payers help in building the nation and fund development activities carried on by the Government. Apart from the fact that Government issues certificates to taxpayers basis their contribution to exchequer, no other benefit is provided to the such tax payers. It is the need of the hour to encourage tax payers to contribute to the cause of the nation. In developed nations, there is a concept of social security being paid to citizens to help them tide over monetary issues during advanced age. A similar concept can be implemented in India for tax payers as well. E.g. a miniscule percentage (say 2 % to start with) of tax paid by each tax payer can be invested in the form of annuities in his/her name till the tax payer attains the age of 60. This would encourage all tax payers to start paying their taxes from an early age and that too they would feel that something directly is being given to them when they would not be able to earn any income and would act as social security support or a pension to be received when needed. The suggestion is only relevant for individual tax payers but would help in mobilising resources when the tax payer knows that Government values the tax payers contribution to the kitty and also gives back some money when the tax payer is not able to earn income and pay taxes. This would act as big sense of relief to the tax payers. Once the tax payer attains the age of sixty, he/she would start getting back the amount invested	It is suggested that in order to encourage the taxpayers to start paying taxes at an early age, the Government may devise an annuity/investment scheme for each taxpayer contribution. To start with, 2/5% of tax paid by each taxpayer may be invested in the form of annuities till the time such taxpayer contributes taxes and say at the age of attaining 60 years, certain amount as available from that annuity may be paid to taxpayers. (SUGGESTION TO IMPROVE TAX COLLECTION) in annuity by the Government. Such gesture of the Government would encourage all tax payers to start paying taxes honestly and this would also make tax payers have a sense of belonging. All tax payers including salaried should get such support from the Government. It is after all their own hard earned money being paid in the form of taxes for the development of the nation and they are able to derive direct benefit from the same when required most by them. It would be similar to the concept of corporate social responsibility as corporates give back something to the society from whom they earn profits. In this regard, consider an example of a taxpayer who is paying approximately Rs 50,000 pa as tax for say 35 years (age 25 years till 60 years). Here, Government can invest say 2 % of the tax paid i.e. Rs 1,000 pa for a period of 35 years and get a consolidated amount as per the conditions prevailing during the period. This amount can be paid to the tax payer concerned at the age of say 60 which would go a long way in encouraging tax payers to contribute to tax kitty knowing that such tax paid would also be directly useful to his well being in times of need.

185.	Grievance redressal mechanism – Fixing of responsibility and accountability	Sometimes, it is very difficult to track the status of the grievances raised by the assessee on Income tax portal. Many a times, the issues raised by the assessee are shown to be resolved without providing any reasonable solution to the problem. Even robotic/fixed replies are given and assessees keeps on following up without getting a resolution to his grievance raised. Such hardship is being faced may be due to the fact that designated officers may not be allocated who will trace/track down the unresolved grievances. This would avoid partially the current scenario	In order that the grievance redressal system is firmly in place and works as per the objective of its introduction, it is suggested to appoint at least one designated officer who works directly under the supervision of the Pr. 		wherein grievances/tickets are closed so as to show that timely resolution provided to assessees whereas assessee is still dissatisfied with the reply from the ITD. It is pertinent to mention here that the DTC of ICAI has represented an issue requesting CBDT to address the concerns arising from automatic processing under section 143(1) of the Act by the CPC considering solely information provided in clause 16 of Form 3CD while ignoring income computation which is causing double addition of same income. The issue has been acknowledged as well by the CBDT. 		direct cost to the taxpayer. Although the purpose and usage of levying surcharge and cess is provided by the successive Governments, it is time now to reconsider its levy in view of contemporary conditions. An end user individual taxpayer is paying both GST (on goods and services used by it) and Income-tax on income earned on it. Already, such taxpayers are contributing significant sum to the exchequer and hence burden is significant and it rises with levy of surcharges and cesses. It is the Government basic duty to provide health and education to its citizens and hence, it is quite unjust from taxpayers point of view to levy cesses and surcharge for the same when taxes both direct and indirect has been contributed by such persons. Also, at the time of introduction of surcharge and cess into the direct taxation provisions, it was clarified that such additional taxes are temporary in nature and would be done away in time. However, successive Governments are yet to do away with such additional taxes. In particular, the highest rate of surcharge levied at the rate of 37% on income exceeding Rs 5 crores is extremely high and there is a clear case at least to reconsider the same and reduce it as per the Government budgetary requirements. Tax buoyancy and collection figures as reported by CBDT and CBIC is pretty good and hence, the Government may consider doing away with surcharge and cess altogether. If not possible, at least, Government may consider reducing the rate of surcharge and cess especially the highest rate of surcharge of 37% being levied on income exceeding Rs 5 crores. Further, different rates of surcharge for different assessee makes the compliances more complicated for the taxpayers.	surcharge and cess is continued, at least the rate of surcharge (especially highest rate of 37% on income exceeding Rs 5 crores) and cess may be reduced to provide some sort of relief to taxpayers community. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

Apart from TDS on Salary under section 192 and TDS provisions for non-resident under Section 195 may continue as in existing forms as they are based on actual basis. TDS Rate should be unified, it will help in smooth conducting of business. Multiple rates are prescribed for TDS. The number of rates in the TDS framework could be reduced to one or two rates, so that compliance burden can be reduce. Similarly, The employee's contribution credited to the employees account in the relevant fund after the due date specified under section 36(1)(va) are disallowed to the employer. Further, any payments made by the employer after the due date is also NOT allowed as a deduction in the year of payment. This causes undue hardship to the assessee especially during the economic turbulence. On similar line, in case of Charitable Institution ,one day delay will in filing registration application will leads to withdrawn of exemption. Further, if assessee fails to furnish tax Audit report u/s 44AB within the time prescribed by CBDT the amount of penalty is same irrespective of the period/number of days delay	Penalties or fees should be charged based on period of delay, Such provisions should reduce entitlement at the rate of say, 2% to 5% per month of delay the economy. One such measure can be introduction of 'Loss Carry Back'. It is pertinent to note that during Global Financial Crisis, 2008 most countries like United States, United Kingdom, France etc. introduced the concept of Loss Carry back, and it was very effective. Loss carry back describes a situation in which a business experiences a net operating loss and chooses to apply that loss to a prior year's tax return. This results in a lower tax bill for the year to which this "carried back" loss has been applied because it reduces the tax liabilities for that previous year. The loss carry back can generate a tax refund for the business for that previous year because of this newly reduced tax liability. After the carried back loss is applied, it will be as though the business overpaid its taxes for that year. Typically, losses can only be carried back two years prior to the year in which the net operating loss occurred. Special circumstances allow for a three-year loss carry back. Loss carry backs are similar to loss carry forwards, except companies apply their net operating losses to preceding rather than subsequent years' incomes. Unless certain circumstances are present, a loss carry back can only be applied to the two years preceding the year the net operating loss occurred. Rationale (benefits) • Loss carry back would support business investment • Loss carry backs can lead to immediate refunds • Loss carry back is a form of loss refundability • Loss carry back acts as an automatic stabiliser It is pertinent to note that for FY 2019-20, lockdown happened for a period of one week. This will land industry in a situation that there is tax liability for FY 2019-20, difficult liquidity position and loss for the last two years. The Government advisory has directed payment of salaries and wages, when there was no income. This and other fixed costs and demand recession has seen F.Y. 2020-21 closure in loss. Therefore, concept of 'provision for Carry Backward of Loss' is worth considering at least for the last two FYs. In this regard, following formula may be considered: All fixed costs for the period from April, 2020 to (say) June, 2020 may be allowed as a special deduction for the F.Y. 2019-20. These expenses, if so claimed and allowed, shall not qualify for deduction for F. Y. 2020-21. In order to avoid litigation, listing of fixed costs like salaries and wages, rent, rates and taxes, insurance, office costs, etc. can be prepared and announced by the CBDT. The relevant extract of the amended Explanation to section 288(2) is as follows: "Explanation.—In this section, "accountant" means a chartered accountant as defined in clause (b) of subsection (1) of section 2 of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 (38 of 1949) who holds a valid certificate of practice under sub-section (1) of section 6 of that Act, but does not include [except for the purposes of representing the assessee under sub-section (1)]— (a) in case of an assessee, being a company, the person who is not eligible for appointment as an auditor of the said company in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 141 of the Companies Act, 2013 (18 of 2013); or (b) in any other case,— ...." {Emphasis provided} The reason for amending the definition of an "accountant" as per the Explanatory Memorandum to the Finance Bill 2015 was to avoid conflict of interest and for better governance. Infact, this amendment was brought in for the limited purpose of disqualifying a relative from conducting the tax audit report based on a CAG report finding. Situation 1 – Where the CA is the statutory auditor of the company From the governance perspective, as per section 144 of the Companies Act 2013, a statutory auditor shall provide to the company only such other services which are approved by the Board of Directors or the audit Committee. However, the statutory auditor cannot provide certain specified non-audit services (NAS) directly or indirectly to the company and entities related to it. It is pertinent to mention that the list of the prohibited services (NAS) by the statutory auditor of a company does not contain provision of taxation services including tax certification services. Therefore, there is no restriction on the statutory auditor to provide tax certification services Situation 2 – Where the CA is NOT the statutory auditor of a company In such a case, the CA can be appointed to provide the NAS, by the management on such terms as it considers appropriate as there is no restriction under the Companies Act 2013. ISSUES FACED DUE TO RESTRICTIONS IMPOSED BY APPLICATION OF SECTION 141(3)(i) OF THE COMPANIES ACT, 2013 I. Difference in scope of statutory audit and tax certification services It is here that the amended definition of the term 'accountant" under explanation to Section 288(2) becomes more onerous than the original intention of the amendment made vide the Finance Act 2015, which as stated earlier, was for the limited purpose of disqualifying a relative from conducting the tax audit report based on a CAG report finding. Pursuant to the amendment to the definition of "accountant" under section 288, once a CA, who is not the statutory auditor of the company, is appointed (or is in the process of being appointed) to provide tax certification services as an 'accountant', he is being subject to the same service restrictions specified in section 144 of the Companies Act 2013 as the statutory auditor of the company although the scope of work of tax certification is much narrower than statutory audit {by virtue of applicability of section 141(3)(i) of Companies Act 2013 read with clause (a) of Explanation to section 288(2)}. 		present a true and fair view. However, opining on the financial statements as a whole is not required in case of issuance of a tax certificate/report by a non-auditor wherein the scope of enquiry is specific to the concerned provisions/sections of the Income-tax Act. However, the CA even in a case where the scope of service is limited to tax certification, is prohibited from providing other NAS specified in section 144 of the Companies Act 2013 which he could have provided but for section 288 of the Income-tax Act 1961. The aforesaid issue can be more clearly understood by way of an example as below: Situation 1- Where the CA is issuing a CERTIFICATE under the Income – tax Act, 1961 As per Rule 37BB, a person responsible for making a payment exceeding Rs 5 lakh to a non-resident inter alia has to furnish Form 15CA (Part C) after obtaining a certificate in Form 15CB from an 'accountant'. Let's suppose a CA in practice (Mr. X) is appointed as an 'accountant' by a company 'A' to certify and issue Form No. 15CB (Certificate of an accountant) during a particular financial year. Since Mr. X is proving tax certification services as an 'accountant', Mr. X has to comply with the provisions of section 141(3) of the Companies Act, 2013 {due to definition of accountant in Explanation to section 288(2)}. In effect, Mr. X cannot provide any of the Non Audit services to company A as specified in section 144 of the Companies Act, 2013 (like accounting and book keeping services, internal audit services etc.) due to application of section 141(3)(i) of the Companies Act, 2013.

		Despite the fact that Mr. X is not a statutory auditor of the company A, he is being restricted from providing NAS as specified in section 144 of the Companies Act, 2013 {by virtue of application of provisions of section 141(3)(i) of the Companies Act, 2013}. Situation 2- Where the CA is providing TAX ADVISORY SERVICES Continuing the above example, Mr. Z (a practicing CA) is appointed by company A to provide the tax advisory services in relation to a tax litigation cum assessment. Since Explanation to section 288(2) is not applicable to Mr. Z, he is free to offer Non audit services as specified in section 144 of the Companies Act, 2013 like accounting and book keeping services, internal audit services etc. Clearly, Mr. X (providing tax certification services) is at a disadvantage to Mr. Z (providing tax advisory services) although both of them are providing similar nature of services and none of them is the statutory auditor of the company A. It is discriminatory if a CA who is providing tax certification services to a company of which he is not the statutory auditor is subject to greater restrictions for provisions of NAS than a CA who is appointed to provide tax advisory (not tax certification services) to a company of which he is not the statutory auditor. It is pertinent to mention that the restrictions under section 141(3) are basically meant for the statutory auditor of the company so that the audit opinion is not influenced, and auditor remains independent while performing the audit function. II. Discrimination between company assessees and non-company assessees In case of assessees other than company assessee, Explanation to section 288(2) prescribes the eligibility requirements only for the assessee and not for any other related entities. Further, there is no prohibition from providing other NAS specified in section 144 of Companies Act 2013. By making eligibility criteria for company assessees with reference to section 141(3) of Companies Act 2013, the scope of restrictions has been broadened to extend to other related entities of the company as well as prohibition of NAS under section 144 of Companies Act 2013. A comparison of the restrictions as applicable to an accountant in the case of an assessee, being a company, and in the case of other assessees is quite clear from the bare perusal of explanation to section 288(2) of Income-tax Act 1961. The IESBA (International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants) Code of Ethics issued by IFAC (International Federation of Accountants) / the ICAI Code of Ethics distinguishes between audit services and non-audit assurance services. As there is no expression of opinion on the financial statements as a part of tax certification services, at best, such tax certification services would fall under "non-audit assurance services". In such situations, the personal independence prohibitions/restrictions are applicable to "assurance engagement team members". Further, NAS are subject to threats and safeguards, only if the NAS relates only to the subject matter of the assurance service i.e., tax certification. Given the nature of services, it would be prudent to apply "non-audit assurance" independence policies instead of "audit" independence policies.

209.	Taxation of ESOP in case of employees of eligible start-ups	The amendment to defer the collection of tax on ESOPs exercised by employees of 'eligible start ups' (i.e. start-ups set up on or after 1 April 2016 approved by Inter Ministerial Board for claiming benefit under section 80-IAC) will benefit employees of only about 250 such 'eligible start-ups' leaving out employees of about 28,000 start-ups registered with The Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade ('DPIIT'). The provision provides for taxation of ESOP perquisite in the year of allotment/transfer of shares whereas the collection of tax is deferred to future date, which is 14 days from the date of a) completion of 5 years from end of year in which ESOPs are exercised or b) shares are sold; or c) employee leaves the employment of the eligible start up, whichever is earlier. As per amendment in section 140A and section 156 of the Act, it appears that that notice of demand will be raised on the employee, but it will be enforced on a future date. Reference to payment of 'interest' by the employee in section 140A and section 156(2) leads to uncertainty with respect to the employee's liability to pay interest since there is no corresponding amendment in section 234A or 234B of the Act. The aforesaid deferred payment mechanism raises various doubts on the employee's liability.	ESOP tax deferral should be extended to all start-ups registered with DPIIT. Instead of said scheme of issue of demand notice followed by deferment of collection, scheme can be enacted on similar lines as that of section 45(2) dealing with conversion of capital asset into stock-in-trade where the income is quantified in the year of conversion but the taxation is deferred till the year of sale of converted asset. The trigger for ESOP taxation can itself be on the happening of any of the prescribed events. If the provision is retained in current form, consequential amendments may be made to section 234A, 234B and 220(1) to clarify that employee's liability to pay interest gets triggered only in case the employer fails to deduct tax within the prescribed deferment period. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

Taxation of dividend will only benefit non-resident investors and is against the interest of the resident individual shareholders. In various countries across the world, dividend income is taxed at lower rates since profit out of which dividends are paid, are already taxed at the dividend paying company level. Due to this, there is indiscrimination with resident investors compared to non-resident investors. Issue: Higher rate of dividend taxation in the hands of resident individual investors. The said aforesaid amendments were made as FIIs were making use of erstwhile dividend taxation regime. Also, there is a case now to bring back deduction under section 80L as was available earlier. This deprives the deductee from claiming the Tax so deducted in his return of income filed before due date of filing return. 		later date say after the time limit of filing a revised return has also expired. Considering the fact that such an omission in the return of income, duly supported by the entries of Form No. 26AS, is a mistake apparent from record, it is suggested that the Assessing Officers may be intimated to accept the rectification application under section 154 in such cases. This will surely be helpful in removing the administrative hindrances being faced by the assessees as well as the Government.
213.	Section 154/155(14) - Different Methods of accounting followed by the deductor and deductee – Rule 37BA	One of the important reasons for mismatch of TDS claimed and TDS as per Form 26AS is adoption of different method of accounting (i.e. Cash or Mercantile) by the deductor and deductee. Various situations that may arise have been explained below by means of examples: (i) *Deductor – Mercantile system of accounting Deductee – Cash system of accounting If the deductor follows mercantile system of accounting, the tax would be deducted at source and deposited in the year in which provision is made. Whereas the deductee following the cash basis of accounting, would offer the income and claim TDS in the year in which the amount is actually received by him. For example, audit fees paid to a Chartered accountant's firm by a company. In such a case it is difficult for the deductee to claim TDS as the TDS certificate is issued in respect of the year other than the year in which it is claimed. Also, in some cases, the receipts may be spread over in two or more years. In such cases, there is difficulty in getting credit of TDS in second and subsequent year in which amount is actually received.	Considering the aforesaid difficulties, it is suggested that section 154/155(14) be appropriately amended so that errors and omissions like non-claiming of TDS be included therein. Further, the aforesaid amendment being clarificatory in nature should be given retrospective effect so as to allow genuine taxpayers to claim credit of TDS in case not claimed in the return of income for any reason. TDS should not be linked with the year of income or the year of receipt. Credit for TDS may be given on the basis of the claim made by the assessee irrespective of the assessment year in which income is received or income is offered to tax. There should be a clear differentiation between amount deducted and amount claimed. The TDS not claimed in a particular year due to any reason may either be allowed to be claimed in the any other assessment year or to be refunded to the deductee. 		(ii) Deductor – Cash system of accounting Deductee – Mercantile system of accounting There is a provision to take the credit of TDS in the year in which income is assessable to tax. If for any reason, TDS certificate has not been furnished; such certificate can be produced within two years u/s 155 of the Income-tax Act. But issue generally arises when the following situation occurs: In case of a deductee who maintains books of accounts on mercantile basis. The amount due to him in respect of a government contract is accounted for in his books of accounts in a particular year and advance tax/ self-assessment tax is paid by him in respect of that income. However, the government which maintains books of account on payment basis pays the amount after two years after deducting tax at source. In such a case, the assessee would neither be entitled to claim credit of TDS in the year of receipt as the income has already been offered to tax in an earlier year nor he would be able to get refund of tax paid by him as the time to file revised return may also have expired. This amounts to payment of tax twice to the government.	carried forward for claiming in the next year. (SUGGESTIONS FOR REMOVING ADMINISTRATIVE AND PROCEDURAL DIFFICULTIES RELATING TO DIRECT TAXES)

However, except the section under which tax is required to be deducted, no other detail is required to be mentioned in the challan. The said ICDS deals with accounting for builders and developers on percentage completion method. However, it is absolutely necessary to recognise that the RERA law gives an absolute right to the unit buyer to refund of money with interest and compensation on delay beyond assured date. This refund provisions will be more visited in the downward market by the unit purchasers. Under such circumstances, it will create a very difficult situation for the builders and developers as by application of percentage completion method, the tax might have been paid and thereafter if some units sale get cancelled, there is no right of refund. At the most, such tax can be adjusted on subsequent sales. However, if subsequent sales don't happen then it will be an additional punishment to the builder/developer that he has been subjected to refund and he has paid off part of the tax also on percentage	It is suggested to provide impetus to the real estate constructions. The present RERA law has stringent constraints upon the project and the developer. The same may be supplemented by the incentives. There may be stoppages of constructions for various reasons. Under such circumstances, money will lie idle in designated bank account.
216.	Tax consolidation Scheme	Background In India, separate entities are incorporated based on their specialization in various lines of businesses by the parent company. The group as a whole and the tax Department face many challenges. Some of them are:- • Each Entity is required to file a separate income tax return involving huge cost of compliance. • Each entity is assessed / scrutinised separately for intra-group transactions resulting in litigation cost for each entity. Significant administrative costs are incurred by the Income tax Department in keeping track of records and assessing multiple subsidiaries. • Apart from cost, a lot of efforts are required by both tax payer as well as Income tax Department for undertaking compliance. • Tax consolidation or combined reporting is a regime adopted in the tax or revenue legislation which treats a group of wholly owned or majority-owned companies and other entities (such as trusts and partnerships) as a single entity for tax purposes.	It is suggested that government may consider introducing the concept of tax consolidation scheme considering the mutual benefits to both tax department and the assessees. (SUGGESTIONS TO REMOVE ADMINISTRATIVE DIFFICULTIES)

		Benefits – • Tax consolidation scheme would help to centralize the planning and payment of tax by the parent company. The company can set off the losses of one inter group company with the profits of another company. • Tax Consolidation will help in tax free movement of assets across the group which would aid in internal restructuring and optimum utilisation of resources. • The number of litigations pending with the tax department would also reduce and thereby reducing the administrative cost of the Income-tax Department. • The tax consolidation regime has been adopted in tax legislations of a number of foreign countries like Australia, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Korea, Spain, USA etc. These countries have not only successfully implemented the said regime but also created a positive impact on business with significant reduction of compliance and litigation cost. • The tax consolidation regime also endorses the Government's efforts of "Ease of doing business in India" and assist in aligning the business and tax objectives of the industry.

		deductees and forward the same to each deductee. In case deductor is a big organisation which has deducted TDS for thousands of parties, it is required to send the TDS certificate through mail or post separately to each deductee. Issuing TDS certificate to thousands of parties every quarter poses challenges and also consumes lot of time which can otherwise be used for operations of the deductor. This sometimes leads to incomplete compliance or non-compliance with provisions of issue of TDS certificates. Though there are penal provisions provided under the Act for non-issuance of TDS certificate by the deductor, in practice the AO do not enforce those provisions. Practical difficulties faced by the deductee It is the deductee who actually suffers by way of denial of TDS credit in absence of TDS certificate and therefore, it is a must for the deductee to continuously chase each deductor for issue of TDS certificate. It may be relevant to mention here that the AO's do not always give TDS credit, especially for years in the past, on basis of Form No. 26AS appearing in the system but require hard copies of the TDS certificates. Section 199 of the Act and Rule 37BA of Income-tax Rules in relation to grant of TDS credit Conjoint reading of the Section 199 of the Act and Rule 37BA of the Rules framed thereunder suggests that credit for the tax deduction should be given/granted on the basis of information relating to deduction furnished by the deductor (i.e. Form 26AS) and the information in the return of income of the claimant. The Department has already enabled the online viewing of Form No. 26AS by deductees which contains TDS details of the deductee based on the TDS statement (e-TDS statement) filed electronically by the deductor. Ideally, there should not be any mismatch between the figures reported in TDS certificate in Form No. 16A issued by the deductor and figures contained in Form No.26AS which has been generated on the basis of e-TDS statement filed by the deductor. However, it has been found that in some cases the figures contained in Form No. 26AS are different from the figures reported in Form No.16A. The gaps in Form No. 26AS and TDS certificate in Form No. 16A arise mainly on account of wrong data entry by the deductor or non-filing of e-TDS statement by the deductor. As at present, the activity of issuance of Form No.16A is distinct and independent of filing of e-TDS statement, the chances of mismatch between TDS certificate in Form No.16A and Form No. 26AS cannot be completely ruled out. CBDT Instruction 1 / 2012 dated 2 February 2012 and Instruction 2 / 2011 dated 9 February 2011 provides similarly. • CBDT Instruction No. 4/2014 [F. The above clearly demonstrates that there would not be any variation between TDS credit reflecting in the Form 26AS and TDS credit as per Form 16A. 		In addition to the above-mentioned points, the NR has to create login for making application for lower deduction certificate. The login can be created after validation and the validation can be done through: Details of TDS/TCS Deposited. – This is generally not available with the deductee because earlier he was not required to deposit tax. Challan Details of Tax Deposited by Taxpayer - This is also generally not available with the deductee. Mention Details of 26QB statement details filed by Buyer before correction– This is also generally not available with the deductee. This is required for compliance u/s 194IA, this is applicable when the seller is resident. Authentication through Aadhaar / VID- The NR is not required to have a Aadhar number. This causes a lot of hardship for the deductee to register himself with the TRACES portal to make application for lower deduction certificate.
237.	Section 201 – Limitation period for Non-resident	Invocation of section 201 in case of a payer to a non-resident for not withholding appropriate tax and depositing the same in the Indian treasury There is no limitation period for invocation of this provision. This creates need for increasingly impractical period of indemnity being sought by a payer from the recipient. Where the payer is conducting very few or one-off transactions involving India, this creates inordinate uncertain Indian tax exposure for such payer.	Limitation period should be provided as follows: (I) 4 years from the end of the financial year in which the transaction requiring tax to be withheld, took place; (II) Absolving the payer from this obligation if the payee non-resident files tax return in India and hence is now approachable by the tax department to be pursued for tax recovery, if any. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

	addressed	consideration for specified services received or receivable by a non-resident not having permanent establishment ('PE') in India, from a resident in India who carries out business or profession, or from a non-resident having permanent establishment in India. In other words, the Finance Act, 2016 enacted a levy of 6% on consideration paid or payable by an Indian resident carrying on business or profession, or by an Indian permanent establishment of a non-resident to a non-resident not having a permanent establishment in India, for providing specified online advertisement services. Certain issues arising from the same are as below: The responsibility for payment is cast on resident payer to deduct and deposit the levy. Interest and penalty would be levied for delay or failure of compliance. This would involve additional cost of compliance to Indian businesses. It is an indirect levy. The equalization levy is a separate levy under the Finance Act, 2016 and will not be part of the Income-tax Act, 1961. This results in defeating the option available to a non-resident of choosing the more beneficial option between the Treaty and the Income-tax Act, 1961. Also, the non-resident may not be able to claim tax credit of this levy in his country of residence, if the DTAA allows foreign tax credit in respect of tax paid under the Act and not in respect of similar taxes paid which are outside the ambit of the Income-tax Act, 1961. It is recommended that the provision be withdrawn or be enacted under Act.	Act, 2016. (SUGGESTION FOR RATIONALIZATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF DIRECT TAX LAWS)

		(a) being a resident in India within the meaning of section 6 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in the previous year; or (b) being a non-resident or not ordinarily resident in India within the meaning of section 6(6) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in the previous year, who was resident in India either in the previous year to which the income referred to in section 4 relates; or in the previous year in which the undisclosed asset located outside India was acquired" As per section 6 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, resident includes both resident and ordinarily resident (ROR); and resident but not ordinarily resident (RNOR). Accordingly, in the above definition of "assessee" under Black Money Law, resident under section 6 referred to in clause (a) would cover both ROR and RNOR. However, since RNOR has been specifically included along with non-resident in clause (b), reference to resident under section 6 in clause (a) implies only ROR and not RNOR. (1) In case of an individual who is RNOR in the relevant previous year, whether the additional requirement in clause (b) of being resident in the earlier previous year when the undisclosed asset was acquired has to be satisfied. (2) If an individual is RNOR or non-resident in the relevant previous year, whether the requirement in clause (b) of being resident in the Previous year in which undisclosed asset outside India was acquired implies that, in such earlier previous year, the person has to be only ROR and not RNOR.	an individual and HUF.

In this process, the first mentioned foreign company collects information about the users in India. This data base is monetised and made available for use by companies in India as well as outside India. • Equalisation Levy covers the first two scenarios, namely providing advertisements and platform for selling goods/services initiated in India but not the third one which is providing data base. • Further, it is also not covered under Significant Economic Presence (SEP) under section 9 of the Income- tax Act, 1961.	suitable tax should be charged on these foreign entities on the basis of some criteria like number of Indian users / hours browsed by Indian users, as income deemed to accrue or arise in India. Further when Pillar I is discussed in the OECD the above-mentioned income may be included for computing Amount A under Pillar I
241.	Section 142(2A): Cases where higher price is determined by custom department for imposing duty should be considered for special audit	In respect of import of goods there have always been instances of over valuation or under valuation of goods for the purpose to evade taxes and therefore for this purpose price determination is done by the Customs Department on which custom duty is duly paid. However, despite the payment of customs being made on a higher price, the price recorded in the books of accounts remain the same i.e. either overpriced or underpriced. _Since the levy of income tax is on the basis transactions recorded in the books of account, there is a possibility of other manipulations in the books of account	It is suggested that the cases where transaction price has been determined by the Customs Department other than the declared price (ie price recorded in books of account), should be considered for the purpose of special audit under section 142(2A) of the Income-tax Act.
